C CAN DO OBJECTIVES

- Talk about different forms of communication
- Describe experiences in the present
- Give and respond to opinions
- Write a guide

UNIT 1

Talk

GETTING STARTED

a Look at the photo and answer the questions.

- 1 Where do you think the boy is?
- 2 Who is he talking to? What is he saying?
- 3 How do you think he feels?

b Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do/Did you talk a lot in class at school or at university?
- 2 Do you talk a lot when you are with your friends? And what about with your family?
- 3 Do you think you should change anything about the way you talk (e.g. talk more, less, more loudly, more quietly)? Why / Why not?

1A Keeping in touch

Learn to talk about different forms of communication

G Subject and object questions

V Communication

1 VOCABULARY Communication

- a Look at photos a–e below and answer the questions using words from the box.

- 1 How are the people communicating?

face to face expressing feelings giving a presentation interviewing telling a joke keeping in touch speaking in public giving opinions

- 2 When was the last time you were in a similar situation to each of the photos?
3 Which situations in the photos do you enjoy? Which don't you enjoy? Why?

- | | |
|------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1 expressing feelings | 4 keep ing in touch |
| 2 interview ing | 5 giv ing op in ions |
| 3 speak ing in public | |

- c Listen again and repeat the phrases.

- d ► Now go to Vocabulary Focus 1A on p.152

2 READING

- a Read How do you communicate? on p.9 and answer the questions.

- 1 Which generation are you?
- 2 How many of these generations are there in your family?
- 3 Which generation are most of the people where you work or study?

- b Read the article again and match quotes 1–4 with generations a–d.

- 1 'Let's talk about this over lunch tomorrow.'
- 2 'I had a lovely letter from Emma. I'll write a long letter back at the weekend.'
- 3 'My Facebook status got 62 likes!'
- 4 'Sorry, I haven't got time for this. Just tell me what you want.'

- a Veterans
b Baby Boomers
c Generation X
d Millennials

- c Think about yourself and people of different generations that you know. Do you agree with the descriptions?

HOW DO YOU COMMUNICATE?

What do we all want from life? As well as love and money, most of us want someone to understand us. But we don't communicate in the same way. People born at different times have very different styles of communication. Which generation are you?

VETERANS

Born before 1945, 'Veterans' are the oldest and most experienced members of society. They think that family life is important and prefer traditional forms of communication. 'Veterans' are the richest generation, possibly because they worked hard and were loyal employees.

BABY BOOMERS

A large number of babies were born after 1945. (In the USA, the peak of the baby boom was in 1957, when eight babies were born every minute!) This increase in births was called a 'boom', which gave the name to a generation. These people have money and good jobs. Many are in positions of power. They are optimists and like face-to-face communication.

GENERATION X

'Generation X' was born after 1965. They are independent thinkers and want to be different from their parents. They have seen the introduction of the home computer, video games, satellite TV and, of course, the internet, so they are good at adapting to changes. This generation is busy – they don't want to wait to hear what you say.

MILLENNIALS

'Millennials' were born after 1980. They are confident, they like computers, and work well in teams. Family and friends are more important than work, but they spend a lot of time online. In fact, 65% of Millennials say that losing their phone or computer would change their daily routine more than losing their car.

3 GRAMMAR

Subject and object questions

- a Look at the questions and answers and underline the correct words in rules a–c.

1 Which of the generations grew up in the digital age?
Millennials.

2 What do we want from life?
Someone to understand us.

a The answer to question 1 is the subject / object of the verb in bold.

b The answer to question 2 is the subject / object of the verb in bold.

c We use the auxiliary verbs do, does, did in subject / object questions.

- b Are the questions below subject or object questions?

- 1 Who do I give this to?
- 2 What happened to your leg?
- 3 Which of these books do you want to borrow?
- 4 Who gave you the flowers?
- 5 Which car uses less petrol?
- 6 What did he say to you?

- c ➤ Now go to Grammar Focus 1A on p.132

- d Make questions with the words below.

1 Who / phone / you / yesterday?

2 Who / you / email / yesterday?

3 What / you and your friends / talk about?

4 What / make / you and your friends / laugh?

5 Which of your friends / you / see / every day?

6 Which of your friends / know / you / best?

- e Discuss the questions from 3d. Ask follow-up questions.

Who phoned you yesterday?

My mum phoned me.

What did you talk about?

UNIT 1

4 LISTENING

- a Talk about family, friends or colleagues. What problems do you think different generations might have when they communicate?

Older people sometimes think younger people are rude because they use more informal language.

- b Listen to someone talking about communication across the generations. Tick (✓) the things he mentions.

- Millennials like connecting with people online.
- Millennials and Veterans usually hate each other.
- Generation Xers and Baby Boomers are similar because they both express how they feel.
- Men and women have different ways of communicating.
- We shouldn't get upset because other generations don't do what we expect.
- It's important to use correct spelling when writing an email or text.
- Different generations can learn a lot from each other.

- c Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 Which generation is the speaker from?
- 2 What does Generation X believe communication is important for?
- 3 Which two generations don't want to talk about their personal goals?
- 4 What do Millennials expect other people to tell them?
- 5 What can younger generations offer to older generations?

- d Which of the things are you best at? Which do you find very difficult? Talk about your ideas.

- talking to older people
- talking to younger people
- talking to people from different countries
- expressing my opinions
- expressing my feelings
- listening when people criticise me
- avoiding arguments

I like talking to older people, but I'm not very good at talking to children.

5 SPEAKING

- a Tick (✓) the things you have done recently. Make notes about the experience.

- met someone new
- had a communication problem with someone from another generation
- spoken to a large audience
- spoken a foreign language outside class
- met a famous person
- communicated with someone you don't know online
- sent or received a letter

- b Look at the experiences your partner ticked and write three questions to ask them.

met someone new
Who was it?
Where were you?
What did you talk about?

- c Ask your partner about their experiences.

Who was the person you met?

It was a new neighbour.

What did you talk about?

We talked about the neighbourhood. She asked me to recommend some shops in the area.

1B I'm using an app for learning English

Learn to describe experiences in the present

G Present simple and continuous

V Graded and extreme adjectives

1 SPEAKING

a Discuss the questions.

- 1 How many languages can you say 'Hello' in?
- 2 How many languages can you order a meal or have a simple conversation in?
- 3 What language are you best at (apart from your own)?

b Choose one idea below and continue using because. Write your idea.

Learning a new language is like ...

- falling in love
- going on an endless journey
- being a child
- growing plants in a garden
- learning a musical instrument

Learning a language is like falling in love, because it's exciting at the beginning, and then it becomes hard work.

c Read your sentences to each other. Do you agree with each other's ideas?

d Look at photos a-d and discuss the questions.

- 1 What are the advantages and disadvantages of each way of learning a language?
- 2 Which have you tried? Have you tried any other ways?

Dy bannee diu Guten Tag Gouden Dai Salut

Сәлем! Bonjour Halito Salute

Hallo Häfa ádai C'kemi Guuten takh

Héébee Bon die! Servas Tungjatjeta

Ola Ahoj Вітаю Góðan dag Hoi

Salud Hola / Bonos días Bon dia

2 READING

a Read Can you really learn a language in 22 hours? quickly and answer the questions.

- 1 What is Memrise?
- 2 Why is Jon Foster using it?
- 3 How much has he learnt?

b Read the article again and choose the correct answers for questions 1–4.

- 1 The writer wants to learn Lingala because he ...
 - a loves new languages.
 - b wants to talk with the people who speak it.
 - c wants to try Memrise.
- 2 Ed Cooke wants learners to ...
 - a enjoy learning more.
 - b improve quickly.
 - c do more vocabulary practice.
- 3 'Mem' is ...
 - a the Lingalese word for 'engine'.
 - b a translation of a new word.
 - c a picture that helps people remember new words.

4 Where do the mems come from?

- a Ed Cooke creates them.
- b Users can create mems for themselves and other users.
- c Every user creates mems only for themselves.

c Match the words in bold in the article with meanings 1–8 below.

- 1 getting better
- 2 changes a word from one language into another
- 3 what someone wants to do
- 4 learnt something so that you remembered it exactly
- 5 something difficult which tests your ability
- 6 able to communicate freely and easily
- 7 to make someone remember something
- 8 do something again

d Would you like to use Memrise? Why / Why not?

CAN YOU REALLY LEARN A LANGUAGE IN 22 hours?

WE ALL KNOW THAT PEOPLE LEARN BETTER IF THEY ENJOY LEARNING.

Jon Foster reports on an app that makes learning a new language like playing a game.

 I've never been much good at languages. But next month, I'm travelling to a remote area of Central Africa and my aim is to know enough Lingala – one of the local languages – to have a conversation. I wasn't sure how I was going to manage this – until I discovered a way to spend just a few minutes, a few times a day, learning all the vocabulary I'm going to need.

To be honest, normally when I get a spare moment at home, I go on Facebook or play games on my phone. But, at the moment, I'm using those short breaks for something more useful. I'm learning a foreign language. And thanks to Memrise, the app I'm using, it feels just like a game.

'People often stop learning things because they feel they're not making progress or because it all feels like too much hard work,' says Ed Cooke, one of the people who created Memrise. 'We're trying to create a form of learning experience that is fun and is something you'd want to do instead of watching TV.'

And Memrise is fun. It's a challenge. It gives you a few new words to learn and these are 'seeds' which you plant in your 'greenhouse'. (This represents your short-term memory.) When you practise the words, you 'water your plants' and they grow. When the app believes that you have really remembered a word, it moves the word to your 'garden'. You get points as your garden grows, so you can compare yourself to other Memrise users. I want to get a high score and go to the next level. And if I forget to log on, the app sends me emails that remind me to 'water my plants'.

 The app uses two principles about learning. The first is that people remember things better when they link them to a picture in their mind. Memrise translates words into your own language, but it also encourages you to use 'mems' – images that help you remember new words. You can use mems which other users have created or you can create your own. I memorised motel, the Lingalan word for 'engine', using a mem I created – I imagined an old engine in a motel room.

The second principle is that we need to stop after studying words and then repeat them again later, leaving time between study sessions. Memrise helps you with this, because it's the kind of app you only use for five or ten minutes a day.

I've learnt hundreds of Lingalan words with Memrise. I know this won't make me a fluent speaker, but I hope I'll be able to do more than just smile and look stupid when I meet people in the Congo.

Now, why am I still sitting here writing this? I need to go and water my vocabulary!

3 GRAMMAR

Present simple and continuous a Match present simple sentences a–c with uses 1–3.

- a When I get a spare moment at home, I normally go on Facebook or play games on my phone.
- b I know this won't make me a fluent speaker.
- c People learn better if they enjoy learning.

We can use the present simple:

- 1 to talk about things which are generally true (sentence ____)
- 2 to talk about habits and routines (sentence ____)
- 3 with state verbs – verbs about thoughts (e.g. understand), feelings (e.g. want) and possession (e.g. own). (sentence ____)

b Match present continuous sentences a–c with uses 1–3.

- a I'm learning a foreign language.
- b Now, why am I still sitting here writing this?
- c Young people are spending more and more time playing on the computer.

We can use the present continuous to talk about:

- 1 actions in progress at the same time as speaking/writing. (sentence ____)
- 2 actions in progress around (before and after) the time of speaking/writing. (sentence ____)
- 3 changing situations. (sentence ____)

c ► Now go to Grammar Focus 1B on p.132

d ☺ Make questions with the words below. Then discuss the questions.

- 1 you / think / you / communicate / well in your own language?
- 2 How often / you / hear / foreign languages where you live?
- 3 you / think / you / have / a good memory?
- 4 What / help / you / learn / English grammar?
- 5 What / you / think / about / right now?
- 6 you / prepare / for an exam at the moment?
- 7 more people / learn / languages in your country than before?

Do you think you communicate well in your own language?

I think so, but I prefer writing to speaking.

e ► Communication 1B ☺

- Student A: Go to p.127.
Student B: Go to p.131.

4 VOCABULARY

Gradable and extreme adjectives

a ► 1.10 Listen and underline the correct words.

- 1 James is a bit / very tired.
- 2 Linda likes / doesn't like the book.
- 3 Tony thinks the girl can do something quite / very impressive.
- 4 The teacher thinks Olivier will / won't be able to pronounce 'squirrel'.

b ► 1.10 Complete the sentences with the words in the box. Listen again and check.

exhausted fantastic impossible useless

- 1 I'm absolutely _____. _____.
- 2 This book's _____. _____.
- 3 That's _____. I can only speak one language.
- 4 It's _____. I'll never get it right.

c Read about gradable and extreme adjectives.

Complete sentences 1–6 with absolutely or very.

- With some adjectives (good, bad, difficult), we can use words like quite, very, really and extremely to make their meaning stronger or weaker (e.g. His pronunciation is quite good. The exam was extremely difficult.).
- Other adjectives already have a strong or extreme meaning (e.g. perfect, useless). We can use words like completely or absolutely before these adjectives to add emphasis (Her English is absolutely perfect.).

- 1 Online dictionaries are often ____ useful.
- 2 That cake's ____ enormous.
- 3 I think Anna's ____ confident.
- 4 I went for a swim in the river and the water was ____ freezing.
- 5 There are only seven houses in my village – it's ____ tiny.
- 6 It's ____ important to learn pronunciation as well as vocabulary.

d ► 1.11 Pronunciation Listen and check. Then answer the questions below.

- 1 Which word is stressed in each sentence?
- 2 Do we usually stress gradable adjectives or extreme adjectives?

e ► 1.11 Listen again and repeat the sentences.

f ► Now go to Vocabulary Focus 1B on p.153

5 SPEAKING

a ☺ Talk about learning a foreign language. Use the questions below.

- What do you want to be able to do with English?
- What level of English do you hope to reach?
- How often do you review what you have learned?
- How often do you watch or read things in English?
- How often do you communicate with native speakers?
- What are you doing at the moment to learn English?
- Are you having any problems with English at the moment?

Giving and responding to opinions a 1.16 Listen and complete the sentences with one word.

- 1 Well, in my ____ , roses are always a good option.
- 2 I ____ something like tulips might be better.
- 3 I ____ it's going to be impossible with another florist's in the same street.
- 4 Well, if you ____ me, it's not worth worrying about until we know for sure.

b Put the words in the correct order to make more formal phrases for giving an opinion.

1 it / me / seems / that / to 2 as / as / concerned / far / I'm c Look at five ways of responding to an opinion.

Does the speaker agree (A) or disagree (D)?

- 1 I know what you mean, but ... ____
- 2 I know exactly what you mean. ____
- 3 I'm not so sure about that. ____
- 4 That's right. ____
- 5 I see where you're coming from, but ... ____

d Tick (✓) the sentences you agree with. Change the other sentences so you agree with them.

- 1 English is an easy language to learn.
- 2 It's difficult to communicate with older people.
- 3 First impressions are important when you meet someone.

e Give your opinions from 2d and respond.

3 PRONUNCIATION Word groups

- a Listen to these sentences. Notice where the speaker pauses to make the message clearer.

I'm really worried. Jo phoned today with some bad news.

- b Listen to this similar sentence. Does the speaker pause?

I'm really worried I won't make enough money.

- c Look at the conversation. Write // where you think the speakers pause.

Rachel Oh, I'm sorry, love. I'm just a bit worried. Jo phoned today and said that the old bookshop is going to be turned into another florist's.

Mark The bookshop on the corner? I didn't know they'd sold it.

Rachel Me neither. But what am I going to do? It's hard enough already to make money, but I think it's going to be impossible with another florist's in the same street.

- d Listen and check.

4 LISTENING

- a Look at the photo. What is happening? What do you think will happen next?

5 CONVERSATION SKILLS

Using me too / me neither

- a Listen and underline the correct words.

Mark The bookshop on the corner? I didn't know they'd sold it.

Rachel Me too / neither.

Different ways of learning

1 SPEAKING AND LISTENING

- a What do you think are some good ways to learn new vocabulary in English? Talk about the ideas in photos a–e, or your own ideas.
- b Listen to Maria and Gilberto talking about learning vocabulary. Are you more like Maria or Gilberto?
- c Listen again and answer the questions.
- 1 What system does Maria use for learning vocabulary?
 - 2 What system does Maria's sister use?
 - 3 Does Gilberto think either system will work for him?
- d Read the descriptions of each style. What kinds of learners are Maria and Gilberto?

Visual learners

They prefer to learn by seeing or reading things and need to see new information written down.

Auditory learners

They prefer to learn by listening to new information. They also like to talk about the new things they've learnt.

Kinaesthetic learners

They prefer to learn by doing something. They don't like sitting still for very long.

- e Talk about what kind of learner you are and why.

2 READING

- a Read What kind of learner are you? on p.17. Answer the questions.
- 1 Which of Maria's ideas is mentioned?
 - 2 Does the article talk more about understanding new information or remembering it?
- b Read the article again. Make notes about the key study techniques for each learning style.

WHAT KIND OF LEARNER ARE YOU?

Different people learn in different ways.

In order to find the most useful way to learn new information, it's a good idea to think about the kind of learner you are: visual, auditory or kinaesthetic. Knowing your learning style helps you study more effectively, so you remember what you have learnt more easily. Remember, you don't just learn when you study – this advice can also be useful for learning at work or in your free time.

VISUAL LEARNERS

It helps to study in a quiet place so that you can concentrate. To learn new information, try to think of an image in your head, or make a diagram to highlight different points. 'This technique helps your memory and it means you can find the information easily when you look at your notes again.'

AUDITORY LEARNERS

Going to a lecture is a good way for you to learn. Read your notes aloud, then cover them and try to say them again from memory. Also, try to use new words when you're talking to people. If you are studying words on a particular topic, you can listen to podcasts that include this vocabulary. 'These ideas should help you remember what you need to know.'

KINAESTHETIC LEARNERS

In order to learn new information, you need to be doing something. It helps to study in a place where you can walk around the room, touch things and move as freely as possible. Make sure you take regular breaks and go for a walk. 'This will help you to concentrate and remain interested in what you are studying.'

These descriptions are only a guide. Most people have a mixture of learning styles. To study successfully, you need to experiment and find the most suitable method.

3 WRITING SKILLS

Introducing a purpose; referring pronouns

- Look at these sentences from the article. Circle the words or phrases in the underlined parts which introduce the purpose in each sentence.
 - In order to find the most useful way to learn new information, it's a good idea to think about the kind of learner you are ...
 - Knowing your learning style helps you study more effectively, so you remember what you have learnt more easily.
 - To learn new information, try to think of an image in your head.
- Underline other examples of purpose words/phrases in the article.
- Join the sentences using purpose words/phrases. More than one answer is possible.
 - I write the new words in a vocabulary notebook. I remember them.
 - I practise pronunciation. I record myself saying words on my phone.
 - I write grammar rules on a piece of paper. I understand them better.
- Look at sentences 1–3 in bold in the article and underline the correct words in the rules.
 - This and these refer to ideas already mentioned / new ideas.*
 - In sentences 1 and 3, this refers back to one word / a complete idea.*
 - We sometimes put a noun / an adjective after this and these.*

4 WRITING A guide

- Think of a skill you know how to do well. It can be something to do with study, work, sport or a free-time activity. Make notes using these questions.
 - How easy is it to learn this skill?
 - What are the problems people have when learning it?
 - What are good ways to learn this skill?
 - Why are they good ways?
- Write a guide on how to learn this skill. Use words/phrases to introduce purpose and this or these, if possible, to refer back to ideas.
- Work in pairs. Read your partner's guide. How easy do you think it would be to learn their skill?

V Work

Not the best interview I've ever had!

Most people feel nervous when they go for a job interview, but some interviews are worse than others. Fortunately, they don't all end in disaster!

a 'They wanted to test how fast I could type. My fingers were over the keyboard, ready to type. The interviewer said 'Right click to open the file', but all I heard was 'Write click' so I typed 'click' on a window that was already open. I felt so embarrassed when I realised my mistake, but we both laughed and I got the job. I've worked there for eight months now.'

Laura

c 'I've had lots of good interviews, but this one was a disaster. I had put on my CV that I could speak 'some French'. I learnt some French at school, but I've never really used it and my listening skills are really bad. The three interviewers began the interview by speaking to me in French, and I didn't understand a word. No, I didn't get the job, and yes, I've changed my CV!'

Dan

b 'I've never forgotten to switch my phone off in the cinema, but for some reason I forgot when I went for my first job interview. My friend phoned me to wish me good luck – right in the middle of the interview. Oops! I didn't get the job.'

Andy

d 'I had a job interview with two people last week. One of them was leaning back on his chair when suddenly it fell right back and it was soon clear that he couldn't get up again. I didn't know if I should try to help or not and I was worried I was going to start laughing. Fortunately, the other interviewer asked me to wait outside the room for a minute, and then the interview carried on as if nothing had happened. Guess what? They've just offered me the job!'

Ellie

2 VOCABULARY Work

a Look at photos a-f below and match them with sentences 1-6.

- 1 Hundreds of people applied for the job but only six candidates were invited for an interview.
- 2 It's hard to balance family life and a career.
- 3 I'm proud of my practical skills and medical knowledge.
- 4 There are 200 employees in this organisation, but I'm only in charge of a small team.
- 5 I've got good grades but I haven't got much experience to put on my CV.
- 6 I've got a lot of business contacts who work for employers in different countries.

- d I've just installed the ThingsToDo app.

- 1 Which sentences use the present perfect continuous?
- 2 Which sentence talks about one completed past activity (without mentioning a time)?
- 3 Which sentence talks about something the speaker has experienced?
- 4 Which sentences talk about activities which started in the past and are not finished yet?
- 5 Which sentences talk about something which happened regularly or more than once?

What's your favourite

I've just installed the ThingsToDo app. It's so easy to use – which is really important when you've got lots of things to do and not much time! You just create a list and then add items to it. Once a week it sends you a list of everything you've done. Juan

Have you heard about SkyWatch? It's great. You just point your phone at the night sky and it tells you what the stars are. You can also type in the name of a planet and the program tells you where to look for it.

Katya

I love Imagegram and I've been using it more and more recently. You can use different effects to make photos look different, like old-fashioned photos, or with brighter colours. Then you can store them online and share them with your friends. Paul

My favourite game at the moment is Balloon Pop. You select groups of coloured balloons and pop them. I've been playing it on the bus every day, because I always want to get to the next level – it's very addictive! Enzo

ActivityTracker is a great app for running. You just press the start button when you begin your workout and the app records your speed, distance and heart rate. After the workout, you can then upload your information to social networking websites and compare with your friends. I've never found an app as good as this before. Fay

I've just downloaded Tunespotter. If you hear a song you like but you don't know what it is, you can use this app. It identifies the name of the song and the singer. And if you like it, you can buy the song really easily. I've had it for a week and I've been using it a lot. Martin

- b Complete the sentences with the present perfect simple or present perfect continuous form of the verbs in brackets.

- 1 I _____ a new phone. (just/buy)
- 2 I _____ for my own name online. (never/search)
- 3 I _____ a lot of films in the last two weeks. (watch)
- 4 I _____ for a new tablet, but I haven't got enough money yet. (save up)
- 5 I _____ about not using my smartphone for a few weeks, just to see if I can survive! (think)

- c 1.31 Pronunciation Listen to sentences 1–4 and underline the correct words in the rule.

- 1 I've used an app.
- 2 I haven't used an app.
- 3 I've been using an app.
- 4 I've just been using an app.

In present perfect sentences, we usually stress the main verb / auxiliary verb. If it is a negative sentence, or we add a word like just, then we also / don't stress the main verb.

What apps have you been using recently?

- b Use your questionnaire to interview different people on the class. Who has used the most and least technology recently? Who in the class do you think is a technology addict?

StopApp is a really useful app and I've been recommending it to all my friends. If too many apps are open on your phone, your phone can be really slow. This app turns them off, which can make your phone faster. Anna

I've been using Crazy Faces a lot recently. It's very silly, but it's fun. You just take photos of your friends and then you can change their faces. You can make them look older or younger, fatter or thinner, and you can add beards, moustaches and glasses. I've seen lots of photos where people have put baby faces on adult bodies and they make me laugh every time! Luke

application

Dear Sir/Madam,

I'm writing to enquire about the possibility of work in your company. I'm an application software developer. I've been ¹ _____ for my current company for just over ² _____ now, but I'd like a change. I'm good at ³ _____ thinking and I have excellent ⁴ _____ - _____ skills. In addition, I also have a positive ⁵ _____ towards my work and colleagues.

I don't speak Cantonese, but I'm very interested in ⁶ _____ and would love the opportunity to live and work there. I'd be interested in any information you can send me.

Please find my CV attached.

Yours faithfully,
Tania Sampson

Hong Kong!!!

Hi Lin,

I'm sorry I haven't been in touch for the past few days, but it's been a very busy time.

On Monday I had a job interview with PayHK, the IT company in Hong Kong that I emailed. Then the next day, I had to do a practical test. ¹You won't believe this, but they've just rung to offer me the job!

The work sounds really interesting – they want me to work on developing apps that can be used for making mobile payments. ²And what's really exciting is that they also want me to think of ideas for new products. The job offer is very generous. Apart from giving me a good salary, they're also going to pay me a bonus if I do well. And they'll pay for my flights and help me with accommodation when I arrive.

³But the best thing is that I'm going to live in Hong Kong! Besides the food, I'm also looking forward to learning Cantonese. Everyone at PayHK speaks English, but I'd like to be able to talk to local staff in their first language. I've always wanted to learn a second language well, and I'm sure I'll be able to do it when I'm living there.

We must get together before I leave, so you can tell me all about Hong Kong. Would you like to meet up for dinner some time in the next week? Let me know a day that suits you.

Tania

- c Which sentences in 1b are true for you?

2 PRONUNCIATION Linking

In a sentence, when one word ends in a consonant sound and the next word starts with a vowel sound, we often link these words. We say them without any pause between the words.

- a 1.40 Listen to the sentences. Can you hear the linking between the words in bold?

- 1 That's the only thing we have in common.
- 2 I don't need emotional support.
- 3 I generally get on with people of all ages.

- b Underline the words which you think will be linked in this way (consonant sound + vowel sound).

- 1 I fell in love with my husband the moment saw him.
- 2 Kate lives in the USA, but we keep in touch online.
- 3 My friends and I have a very silly sense of humour.
- 4 I don't think a shared background is important.
- 5 My relatives are all very close.

- c 1.41 Listen and check. Then practise saying the sentences.

Film Facts

- ★ Untouchable (2011)
 - ★ Directed by Olivier Nakache and Éric Toledano
 - ★ France's number one film for ten weeks
 - ★ France's second biggest box office hit
 - ★ Nominated for nine Césars
 - ★ Made over $160 million in France and $400 million worldwide

- 1 Untouchable, a charming French comedy about two friends who have almost nothing in common, has been a huge international success. But, before their story became a cinematic sensation, how exactly did a rich French aristocrat and an Algerian immigrant with a criminal past become good friends?

- 2 Philippe Pozzo di Borgo and Abdel Sellou first met in Paris in 1993 when Philippe was looking for a nurse. Philippe was from a very wealthy family. At one time he had been a successful businessman, living a life of great luxury. Then he had a terrible paragliding accident and lost the use of his arms and legs. Life in a wheelchair was lonely and boring. Philippe was struggling to imagine the future, and he needed practical help with his day-to-day life.

- 3 Philippe interviewed more than 80 people for the job of nurse, but none of them seemed right. Then he met Abdel, who had quit a life of crime in Algeria and moved to France to look for work. He was lively, intelligent and quick-thinking, with a crazy sense of humour. Philippe got on with Abdel immediately, and he offered him the job.

- 4 The two men didn't have much in common. Abdel loved pop music, but Philippe preferred classical music. Philippe loved modern art, but Abdel hated it. Philippe's family were sure that he had made a bad choice. They believed that Philippe needed someone much more sensible. Meanwhile, Abdel wasn't planning on staying in the job for long.

Untouchable

– the true story of an unlikely friendship

UNIT 3

d Read the second part of the article and check.

5 However, their working relationship quickly developed into a close friendship. Abdel gave Philippe the support he needed. More importantly, his energy and sense of humour brought fun and excitement back into Philippe's life. Abdel helped Philippe make trips to other countries. Back home in Paris their adventures included travelling around the streets of Paris with Abdel on the back of Philippe's wheelchair or driving Philippe's Rolls-Royce – often much too fast!

6 In the end, Abdel worked for Philippe for ten years. Philippe believes it was Abdel's energy and sense of fun that kept him alive. 'I suddenly found I was enjoying life again,' he says. 'I felt like I didn't know what was coming next.' As for Abdel, getting to know Philippe had kept him out of prison and introduced him to a new way of life.

7 Philippe and Abdel now live in different countries, each with a wife and family. They keep in touch regularly. Over the years they have learnt, among other things, to enjoy each other's favourite music. All that really matters to their friendship, though, is their shared love of laughter and adventure.

e Find words or phrases with these meanings in the article.

- 1 someone from a high level in society (paragraph 1)
- 2 rich (paragraph 2)
- 3 sad because you are not with other people (paragraph 2)
- 4 full of energy (paragraph 3)
- 5 help or encouragement (paragraph 5)
- 6 ability to enjoy life and not be too serious (paragraph 6)

f Discuss the questions.

- 1 Why do you think people liked the film so much?
- 2 Do you have a lot in common with your friends? Or do they introduce you to new things and ideas? Which is more important?
- 3 How long can a friendship last when you keep in touch but don't spend time together?

4 GRAMMAR Narrative tenses

a Underline the correct words.

The two men ¹first met / were first meeting in Paris in 1993, when Philippe ²looked for / was looking for a nurse. At one time, he ³was / had been a successful businessman, living a life of great luxury. Then, after a terrible paragliding accident, he ⁴had lost / lost the use of his arms and legs. V Family; Multi-word verbs

1 VOCABULARY Family

- a Look at the photos and guess the family relationships between the people. Make at least two guesses for each picture.

They could be sisters.

Perhaps they're cousins.

- b Match sentences 1–8 with photos a–h.

- 1 I haven't got any brothers or sisters, so I'm an only child.
- 2 My brother has got a son and a daughter, so I've got a nephew and a niece. They're twins.
- 3 Judy was born a year before me, so I've got an older sister.
- 4 My brother is two years older and my sister is three years younger. I'm the middle child in our family.
- 5 I've got five brothers and sisters who are all younger than I am. I'm the oldest child in the family.
- 6 My family lived in Malta until I was 12 years old, so I spent all my childhood there.
- 7 Helena has given up work to stay at home and raise her young children.
- 8 I've just become a grandmother, so there are now three generations in our family!

- c Use the bold words and phrases in 1b to talk about your family.

I'm not an only child –
I've got an older sister.

I spent my childhood
in the country.

UNIT 3

2 LISTENING

a Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you know any twins? If so, how well do you know them?
How similar/different are they?
- 2 What do you think are the advantages and disadvantages of having a twin?

b 1.45 Listen to two twins talking about their lives. Answer the questions.

Charlotte

- 1 What were the twins like when they were children?
- 2 What changed in their relationship when they were teenagers?
- 3 What's their relationship like now?

Megan

- 1 What kind of sister was Charlotte?
- 2 What changed in their relationship when they were teenagers?
- 3 In what ways are they similar now?

c Do you think Megan and Charlotte like being twins? Why / Why not?

d 1.45 Listen again and answer the questions. Write C (Charlotte), M (Megan) or B (both).

Who says ... ?

- 1 she can tell what the other twin is thinking _____
- 2 they used to swap clothes _____
- 3 they looked very similar when they were children _____
- 4 they didn't use to argue very much _____
- 5 they wanted to be different from each other when they were teenagers _____
- 6 they get in touch frequently now _____

e Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you have brothers and sisters? Is your relationship similar to the relationship between Megan and Charlotte?
- 2 Would you like to have a twin? Why / Why not?

3 VOCABULARY Multi-word verbs

a Match the multi-word verbs in bold in sentences 1–9 with meanings a–i.

- As we grew up, we created our own identities.
- We usually speak on the phone two or three times a day, and we get together as often as we can.
- We looked so similar – our parents used to mix us up.
- We didn't use to argue much, but in our teenage years we started to grow apart.
- We saw that we'd both cut all our hair off!
- We wanted to hang out with each other more.
- My parents ring me up every Sunday night for a chat.
- My grandmother brought me up, so I'm very close to her.
- I think I mainly take after my dad – we look similar and we're both good at science.

- a to be similar to an older member of the family
- b to meet (when you have organised it before)
- c to make a phone call to someone
- d to gradually have a less close relationship
- e to think one person/thing is another person/thing
- f to remove or make shorter, using scissors or a knife
- g to spend time with someone
- h to gradually become an adult
- i to look after a child until he/she is an adult

b Complete rules 1–3 with the verbs in bold.

- I mainly take after my dad.
- We started to grow apart.
- We'd both cut all our hair off.
- We'd both cut off all our hair.
- We'd both cut it off.

- 1 Some multi-word verbs have no object (e.g. _____.)
- 2 Some multi-word verbs are separable (e.g. _____.)
This means that the object can go either between the verb and the particle or after the particle.
(When the object is a pronoun (e.g. you, him, it), it must go between the verb and the particle.)
- 3 Some verbs are not separable (e.g. _____.). When we use a pronoun with these, it goes after the particle.

c 1.46 Pronunciation Listen to these sentences. Which word in bold is stressed?

- 1 As we grew up, we wanted to create our own unique identities.
- 2 We wanted to hang out with each other.
- 3 We saw that we'd cut all our hair off!

We usually stress the particle in multi-word verbs, not the main verb. If the multi-word verb has two particles, we stress the first one. If the multi-word verb is separated by an object (e.g. all our hair), then we often stress the object a 1.46 Listen again and repeat the sentences.

e Discuss the questions.

- 1 Where did you grow up?
- 2 Who brought you up?
- 3 When did your whole family last get together?
- 4 How much do you take after your parents?

4 GRAMMAR used to, usually d Make notes about someone in your family who interests you. Why do they interest you?

e Tell a partner about the person in your family.

2 READING

a Read Bryan's email to Susie. Why did their grandparents decide to live in Canada?

Mail

Hi Susie,

I've done a bit of investigating about Gran and Grandad, and how they ended up living in Canada. I told you that Grandad worked as a chef on cruise ships from 1937 until 1939, when World War II started. And you know that while he was working on one of the ships, he met Gran. She was the ship's nurse.

Well, apparently, that ship's destination was Vancouver. When the ship arrived, they spent a couple of days there. That's when Grandad proposed to Gran, and she said yes. During their stay in Vancouver, they decided that they really liked the city and that they would start a new life in Canada.

However, World War II started and Grandad had to go back to England and join the British army. Meanwhile, Gran stayed in Canada, because it was much safer. They were separated for five years and missed each other very much. Gran was quite lonely at first, but after a couple of months she got a job in a hospital and she made friends there – she was always very friendly and good at talking to people.

In 1946, Grandad returned to Canada and they got married. Five years later, my father was born. And then two years after that, your mother was born.

Gran and Grandad lived in the same house for 30 years. I used to go and visit them in Vancouver over the summer when I was at school. Would you like me to take you to see the house one day?

WHAT HAPPENS TO TALENTED CHILDREN WHEN THEY GROW UP?

Do successful children become successful adults?
We look at two talented children and see what happened to them when they became adults.

ANDREW HALLIBURTON

Andrew Halliburton has an IQ of 145 and was very ¹succeeded / talented at maths at a young age. But, rather than making a fortune in banking or computers, he ended up clearing tables in a fast-food restaurant. As a child, his parents pushed him very hard, but he didn't spend enough time making friends. He thinks that the other children at school didn't like him because he was always so clever. He went to university to study computing, but he thought the course was too easy, so he ²gave up / succeeded after six months. He got a job in a burger bar instead, and worked there for several years.

OPRAH WINFREY

Oprah Winfrey is a ³success / successful TV presenter in the USA. She had a very difficult family life and she never had any money. But she was very ⁴intelligent / talent and did well at school. She always had a ⁵positive attitude / positive thinking towards life and she was ⁶determined / brilliant to work on TV. At the age of 19, she got a job with a local radio station. In the mid 1970s, she became the first black female newsreader on American TV. This was the beginning of her ⁷successful / success story. Her TV show, where she interviewed famous people like Tom Cruise, Michael Jackson and Barack Obama, became famous around the world. Now she is one of the richest women in America.

2 LISTENING

by Susan Cain (2013)
 Are you an extrovert (confident and sociable) or an introvert (quiet and happy to be alone)? Your personality type influences your friendships, your relationships and your career. It even affects your need for sleep and the way you learn. In societies that value conversation and self-expression, introverts are often seen as 'second place' to extroverts. In this beautifully written book, Susan Cain explores the many good things that introverts bring to the world.

BOOK REVIEWS

by BookMan ★★★★

This is the most fascinating book I've read on the introvert/extrovert topic for a long time. Cain describes her personal experience of being an introvert as well as writing about famous introverts who have changed the world.

by JD ★★★★

As a child I was often terrified at school because of the emphasis on public speaking and discussion. Perhaps some of the ideas from Susan Cain's book will change the education system in the future.

by Alan Gibson ★★★

A well-written book. I found the ideas very interesting, but I was disappointed that Susan Cain only writes about society in the USA without exploring how other cultures view introverts and extroverts.

by BLII ★★★★★

A great book! Everyone who thinks that introverts are depressed or boring should read it!

by Thinker ★★★

I was a bit bored by all the stuff about business, but I'm an introvert myself so it was very satisfying to see such praise of my personality type!

Why the world needs introverts

"It's good to be sociable! It's good to be confident! It's good to be loud!" In her book Quiet, Susan Cain points out how deeply this belief is held by society. Very often the qualities of extroverts – being active and lively, making quick decisions and working well in a team or group, for example – are valued more than the shy, serious and sensitive qualities of introverts. Susan Cain calls this attitude the 'Extrovert Ideal'. In her book she looks at the way society places such value on the Extrovert Ideal that many modern schools and workplaces are built around it. Desks in classrooms are pushed together so that students can work in groups more easily. In Europe and the USA, employees are frequently put in shared offices so that they can work in teams. Students and employees are also expected to be confident and talkative.

Why are the needs of introverts ignored in this way when introverts have so much to offer? Introverts need less excitement around them than extroverts, it's true, but that doesn't make them less exciting people. Many of the world's greatest ideas, art and inventions have been produced by introverts. The Indian leader Mahatma Gandhi was an introvert, as were the artist Vincent Van Gogh and the physicist Albert Einstein.

Mahatma Gandhi was an introvert, as were Van Gogh and Albert Einstein

Then there was Rosa Parks, who started the US civil rights movement in 1955 by bravely and quietly saying 'no' when a white passenger wanted to sit in her seat on a bus.

Famous introverts in modern times include Angelina Jolie and Mark Zuckerberg. Jolie, a hugely successful actor, supports charities that help people in war zones. She describes herself as an introvert, saying she loves to spend time alone or with small groups of people because it helps her develop as a person.

And despite the huge success of his social networking site, co-founder of Facebook Zuckerberg remains a private person who doesn't like speaking in public.

But let's not forget that we need extroverts too. Because of course, introverts can come up with great ideas, but they also need help in communicating those ideas to the world. Songwriters need singers. Designers need sales people. In other words, extroverts and introverts need each other.

3 VOCABULARY Personality adjectives

a Complete the definitions with the personality adjectives in bold in the article on p.48.

- 1 _____ people talk a lot.
- 2 _____ people are easily upset and feel emotions deeply.
- 3 _____ people like spending time with other people.
- 4 _____ people do a lot of things or move around a lot.
- 5 _____ people are full of energy and enthusiasm.
- 6 _____ people are not confident, especially with new people.

b Read about these people. What adjectives describe them?

- 1 Bella loves romantic poetry. It often makes her cry.
- 2 Louis doesn't say much when he's with people he doesn't know.
- 3 Stefan always has something to say.
- 4 Jon loves parties and meeting new people.
- 5 Anna organises various clubs, and is always out doing new things.
- 6 Monica is always so energetic and busy.

4 GRAMMAR Articles

a Read the text and underline the correct answers.

Ø means 'no article'.

I have always been ¹*an / the* introvert, but I pretend to be lively. At ²*the / Ø* school, I was always really shy, but I acted loud and confident. I have always preferred to spend hours alone with ³*the / a* good book or go for a long walk with my dog. I hate ⁴Ø / the clubs and groups. For example, I went to ⁵*a / the* birthday party last week, and I felt really shy and nervous. But I tried to look happy and active at ⁶*a / the* party because I didn't want people to think I was strange. My husband is ⁷*the / a* friendliest person in ⁸*a / the* world. He loves going out and being with people. And he appreciates the effort I make to fit in when we socialise. But every so often he says, 'You really don't like ⁹Ø / the people, do you?'. ,

b Complete the rules with a/an, the or Ø (no article).

- 1 We use _____ when it is clear what or who we are talking about.
- 2 We use _____ when we are not talking about one specific thing or person.
- 3 We use _____ when there is only one of something.
- 4 We use _____ when we talk about things in general, or the general idea of something.

c ▶ Now go to Grammar Focus 4B on p.138

d Write a short paragraph about one of the topics below. Try to use articles correctly.

- someone you know who is an extrovert/introvert
- an interesting book you would recommend
- a famous person you admire

e Read and check your partner's paragraph. Are there any mistakes with articles?

5 SPEAKING

a You are going to talk about a time when you experienced strong feelings. Choose one of the ideas in the box, or your own idea. Make notes about how you felt at different stages of the experience. Write down key words and phrases.

- a time you helped someone a terrible shock an interesting journey a nice surprise an expensive mistake a scary situation

b Tell your group about your experience. Has anyone else had a similar experience? If so, did they feel the same?

I had to give a speech to 200 people. I'm quite shy, so I was terrified!

TRAVEL GROUPS

1 North India and the Himalayas – come and join us in October!
Hi there,

2 We're planning a trip to North India and the Himalayas this October and we're looking for people to join us. We'll be doing some climbing (not too much!) and also travelling around in North India. We're meeting up in Delhi in mid-October and spending about four weeks on the road.

3 We're looking for one or two people, male or female, under 30, reasonably fit and able to live cheaply. Climbing experience preferred (and experience of India would be good too). Ideally you should be sociable and not too serious (like us).

4 If this sounds like the trip for you, send a reply plus a photo and we'll get back to you!

VC Volunteer Community Project

home about us community projects accommodation applications

Volunteer needed

Duties include teaching English, art, maths, etc., as well as leading educational play groups. Support will be given by local teachers or project staff. Occasionally, volunteers will be asked to help with domestic duties such as preparing meals and keeping the classrooms and gardens clean to help create a happy and healthy atmosphere for the children.

Volunteers should be available to start work next month. No qualifications required, but candidates should have a positive and outgoing personality and be good with young children.

Please send a CV and a short personal profile.

3 WRITING SKILLS The language of adverts a Read about the language used in the adverts. Which adverts do sentences 1–6 describe? Write a, b or c.

- 1 Sentences start with we or you. a, c
- 2 Sentences start with impersonal nouns like jobs or duties.
- 3 Sentences use formal words like candidates or volunteers.
- 4 Passive verb forms are often used.
- 5 The advert uses conversational expressions (Hi there, get back to, fixing things).
- 6 Some sentences and phrases end in exclamation marks.

b Which features in 3a make the adverts seem ... ?

- a more personal and friendly
- b more impersonal and official c Look at advert a. What is the purpose of each section? Match sections 1–4 with these descriptions.

- a tells the reader what to do next
- b gives details of the situation (work, travel, plans, etc.)
- c shows briefly what the advert is about
- d says what kind of person they're looking for d In adverts and messages, we often use fixed 'reduced' expressions. Find expressions in the adverts which mean the following:

- 1 You don't need any experience.
- 2 We'd prefer a person with climbing experience.
- 3 We need a volunteer.
- 4 We don't require you to have any qualifications.

e Look at some more examples of reduced expressions in writing. How can you express the same ideas in full sentences?

- 1 Assistance urgently needed.
- 2 Driving licence required.
- 3 Male or female under 40 preferred.
- 4 Accommodation included.

4 WRITING An informal online advert a Write an advert. Choose one of these situations.

- You're travelling somewhere and you want more people to join you to make a group.
- You're organising charity work and you want to take on some volunteers to help you.
- You want to employ someone to work for you for a couple of weeks.

Follow this plan.

- 1 Give a heading to draw attention to the advert.
- 2 Describe the situation (the job, your plans, etc.).
- 3 Say what kind of person you're looking for.
- 4 Ask for a reply.

b Read and check your advert.

- 1 Do you think it's too formal, not formal enough, or about right?
- 2 Have you used any reduced expressions?

c Read another student's advert and write a reply.

- 1 Say you're interested.
- 2 Give details about yourself.
- 3 Ask any further questions.

SHORT WORK

Wanted – help with garden and house

We're a big family (three small children) and we need help with work on our garden and house for two weeks. Jobs that need doing include general work in the garden, painting in the house, fixing electrical problems. No experience needed but you should be good at fixing things and happy to work hard. Payment to be arranged.

- 2 How much money do they give?
- 3 What can winners do with the money?

The Whitley Fund for Nature (WFN)

The WFN is a UK charity which aims to help the environment in different parts of the world. They give money to people who are trying to save their local environment from danger. They believe that the best projects:

- ✓ are practical
- ✓ are based on good science
- ✓ help local people but also depend on local people's help

Every year, they award up to £35,000 to people who run projects that will bring long-term positive change to the environment. With the help of the Whitley Award money, these people will be able to increase the size of their projects and become better known both in their own country and even abroad.

- 2 Do you think one project is more important than the others?
- 3 Which project would you like to visit or help? Why?

a) Ekwoge Enang Abwe

The Ebo forest in Cameroon covers almost 2,000 km² and is home to a unique mix of 11 primates, including gorillas and the Nigeria-Cameroon chimpanzee, the most endangered of the chimpanzees. These amazing chimps use tools to fish and open fruit. In addition, the spectacular Goliath frog, the largest frog in the world, lives here.

The Cameroon government is considering turning the Ebo forest into a national park with a focus on conservation research and tourism, but there are still threats from local people and large companies who want to use the land for farming.

Ekwoge Enang Abwe grew up in a village in Cameroon, so his love for chimpanzees began at an early age. He has played an important role in the area for almost a decade and, since 2010, he has been managing the Ebo Forest Research Project.

As well as encouraging local communities to be proud of the forest's unique biodiversity, this project has been doing biological research in the forest. The project has regular contact with communities through environmental and conservation education.

They hope they will be able to create a safe future for the Ebo forest.

b) Dr Aparajita Datta

In 1995, Dr Aparajita Datta arrived at the Pakke Tiger Reserve in north-east India to study the local wildlife. Her attention was captured by a species of beautiful birds called hornbills. These birds are endangered because of hunting and the destruction of their forest home. Aparajita now leads a programme to conserve them.

India's north-eastern region is known for its biological and cultural diversity. The area contains the world's most northerly tropical rainforests with an estimated 7,000–8,000 species of flowering plants, and over 600 bird and 150 mammal species, including tigers and elephants. The region also has small tribal communities and these communities often depend on using the resources from the forest to survive. Aparajita and her team are working with local people and the government. They hope to find a balance between the conservation of wildlife and the needs of the local communities. Aparajita is spreading knowledge of the importance of hornbills to the forest – plants need them to spread their seeds. There is also a nest adoption programme, with money going to villagers who help to protect the birds.

Çağan Şekercioğlu

Turkey has a huge variety of natural environments, from Mediterranean forests to coastal mountains. But many of these areas are threatened by the construction of new dams and roads. Çağan Şekercioğlu has been working hard to protect some of these areas. He is the first conservationist to win two Whitley Gold Awards.

In 2008, he won his first award for his work to protect the natural environment around Lake Kuyucuk, home to over 40,000 birds of 227 species. This work included research into the local wildlife, environmental education programmes for schools, and promoting nature tourism to support the local economy.

He won the award again in 2013 after he persuaded the government to create Turkey's first Wildlife Corridor. Approximately 4.5 million trees will be planted to connect the Sankamış-Allahuekber National Park to the forests along the Black Sea coast and the Caucasus mountains in neighbouring Georgia. This will allow large animals, such as the wolf, brown bear and Caucasian lynx, to move freely and safely.

Çağan's interest in conservation began when, as a teenager in Istanbul, a local wetland area where he had played as a small child was destroyed. This early experience inspired his life's work of protecting Turkey's wildlife habitats. For his next mission, he hopes to stop the construction of a dam that could destroy one of the world's most important wetlands.

h Discuss your predictions.

I'm sure you'll get a good job and become very rich in the next few years.

I hope so!

4 SPEAKING

a Read predictions 1–6. Do you agree with them? If not, change them so you do.

In the future ...

- 1 people will stop killing endangered animals and cutting down trees.
- 2 we will lose some animal or plant species for ever.
- 3 people will discover new wildlife species.
- 4 pollution will continue to get worse in big cities.
- 5 more areas of my country will become national parks.
- 6 people will behave in a more environmentally friendly way (recycle more, use public transport more, etc.).

b Discuss your ideas. Do you generally agree with each other? Are you optimistic or pessimistic about the future?

In general, our group is quite hopeful because we think that pollution will get better, not worse. We think that people will recycle more in the future.

ON TV TONIGHT ...

Nature knows best, Channel 4, 21:30

In this series, Professor Leslie Cook takes a closer look at common objects which were invented by humans, but inspired by nature.

Professor Cook begins the programme by talking about Velcro: a material we use every day on our shoes, clothes, purses and bags. It was inspired by the 'hook and loop' system that some plants use to move their seeds. In 1948, Swiss engineer George de Mestral was walking with his dog in the countryside when he noticed that little seeds from a plant were sticking to his dog's fur. He studied the plants more closely and saw how the hooks on the plant attach themselves to the loops and curls of an animal's fur. This gave him the idea of making Velcro.

3 GRAMMAR Zero and first conditional a Read the conditional sentences from the TV programme and underline the correct words in rules 1 and 2.

- ◆ Zero conditional: If the lizard puts a foot somewhere wet, its skin pulls the water up and over its whole body.
- ◆ First conditional: If we are successful, the device will provide water for people who live in very dry environments.

- 1 The zero / first conditional talks about what will probably happen in the future as a result of something.
- 2 The zero / first conditional talks about what always happens as a result of something.

b Underline the correct words in rules 1 and 2 below.

- 1 We can use if / when to talk about things which will possibly or can happen.
- 2 We can use if / when for things which will definitely happen.

c Complete the text below with the correct form of the verbs in the box.

ANIMALS HAVE ADAPTED to survive EVERWHERE

Polar bears are a good example. They have layers of fat under their ¹_____, which means that they can swim in freezing water. Not only this, but it's very difficult for other animals to see them in the snow. Because they have completely white ²_____, they can easily run up to other animals and attack with their huge ³_____.

Another amazing animal is the ptarmigan. This Arctic bird is also white, which helps it hide in the snow. However, when the snow melts, the bird's ⁴____ change colour. From its head to its ⁵_____, it turns grey to match the rocky environment.

Plants have adapted, too. This bee orchid looks exactly like it has a real bee resting on its ⁶_____. This 'bee' is actually part of the flower, and it's nature's way of attracting real bees to the orchid.

Many fish can change the colour of their ⁷_____ instantly to match their background.

At first, you might think that this is a ⁸_____. But it's really an Indian leaf butterfly, sitting on the ⁹____ of a tree. Because it doesn't look like a butterfly, it can hide from other animals that would like to eat it.

This Amazon jungle spider also has an inventive way of protecting itself. It creates a ¹⁰____ which looks like a much larger spider, possibly to frighten other animals.

 - 5 Make sure you don't _____ the whale's breathing hole.
 - 6 Make a _____ in the sand around the whale to fill with water.
 - 7 When the tide comes in, _____ the whale out to sea again.

THE WHALE FILE

TRUE OR FALSE

- 1 Whales aren't fish, so they need to come to the surface to breathe.
- 2 All whales have teeth.
- 3 Female whales are bigger than male ones.
- 4 Whales never sleep because they need to breathe.
- 5 Whales breathe every 15 minutes.
- 6 Whales can communicate by singing to each other.
- 7 Whales sometimes swim onto the shore and can't get back to sea.

2 READING

- a Read Tomas' essay about water pollution below. In his opinion, who should do something about this kind of pollution?
- b Read the essay again. Are the sentences true (T) or false (F)?
- 1 Tomas suggests that we probably don't complain when people throw rubbish in water.
 - 2 He suggests there's more rubbish in lakes than on beaches.
 - 3 Eating plastic can make animals and birds ill.
 - 4 Forgotten bits of fishing net can kill fish.
 - 5 Tomas thinks water pollution is worse than air pollution.
- c What do you think should be done about water pollution?

Keeping our water clean

- 1 If you walk down the street and see someone throw a plastic bottle on the ground, you'll probably get annoyed. You might even say something to that person. But do we react in the same way when we see people throwing rubbish into the sea? We all know how rubbish damages the environment on land, but we often forget the effect that it can have on environments like the sea, lakes and rivers, too.
- 2 First of all, water pollution looks terrible. Beautiful beaches can become covered in rubbish when whatever we have thrown into the water comes ashore. It's just not pleasant to swim in rivers and lakes that have plastic bags floating in them.
- 3 Secondly, rubbish can hurt animals and birds that live in or by the water. If they see a plastic bottle, they may think it is food. However, when they try and eat the bottle, it can get caught in their mouth or stomach and stop them from eating anything else. Plastic bottles can also stop dolphins from breathing. Sometimes, fishing boats leave bits of fishing net behind in the water. Fish can get caught in this and die.
- 4 Finally, people forget that plastic contains chemicals which stay in the water. This is very bad for both fish and plants. If you eat fish containing these chemicals, then you can also get sick.
- 5 In conclusion, I would say that we need to worry about water pollution as much as we care about land or air pollution. We should all look after the seas, lakes and rivers, and remember to take our rubbish away with us.

CULTURE SHOCK

Some people choose to live in another country, other people have to move for family or work reasons. If you're going to live in a new place for some time, you ought to be prepared to experience culture shock at some point.

At first, when you're in a very different environment, everything seems exciting and new. Then, the differences start to be annoying. Life feels too fast or too slow, the food tastes strange, you miss your favourite television programmes. Laws are different – there are things you mustn't do here that you can do at home. This is culture shock.

The good news is, you don't have to spoil your experience of living abroad. Culture shock doesn't usually last very long.

'Have you eaten?'

May 13th

Singaporeans are my kind of people – they're passionate about food and eating!

People here eat often – they have five or six meals a day. Instead of 'Hello' or 'How are you?' they ask, 'Have you eaten?'. And it's hard to believe just how many different kinds of dishes you can get in this tiny country – Chinese, Indian, Arabic, European and many, many more.

The best meal of the day today was lunch. The main course was muri ghonto or fish head curry – far more delicious than it sounds! It's a southern Indian dish. You can have it with rice, but we had it the way that the Chinese do, with a soft bread roll.

Dessert was cendol – coconut milk, ice and green noodles. It's a typical south-east Asian dish. It wasn't as sweet as I expected, but the noodles were lovely – a bit like jelly.

There are places to eat here to suit everyone – from food stalls in shopping malls to more upmarket (and more expensive!) restaurants. My plan is to try as many as I can in the short time I'm here.

Hawker centres – street food, but not on the streets

May 14th

Singapore is famous for its street food, but it's been illegal to sell cooked food in the streets for many years. So, if you're looking for Singapore's famous street food, hawker centres are the places to go. These are indoor food markets with stalls that sell freshly cooked food. You choose your hawker centre according to what kind of cuisine you fancy – Thai, Malay, Chinese, Indian, Middle Eastern.

I went to the Golden Mile Food Centre – it was amazing to see so many different food stalls under one roof. Sup tulang – a Malay-Indian dish of beef bones in a red spicy sauce – looked very tasty. But in the end I wanted something lighter, so I chose ayam buah keluak, a Peranakan (Chinese-Malay) dish. It's chicken with Indonesian black nuts, served with steamed rice. A good choice – one of the most unusual dishes I've ever tasted.

Little India, big appetite

May 15th

This part of Singapore was full of the sights and smells of India. I ate thosai – crispy Indian pancakes made from rice and lentils. They were served with rich and spicy dips and vegetable curry. The meal was light and fresh – delicious!

Still full from my Indian lunch, I explored the Arab Quarter. There was plenty of great food on offer, but sadly I wasn't hungry! I'll have to come back to Singapore. I haven't had a chance to explore Chinatown either.

By the evening I was hungry again, so I tried some of the barbecued food at Lau Pa Sat, an old market. I went for Malaysian chicken satay, pieces of chicken on sticks served with spicy peanut sauce. Absolutely delicious!

e Read the blog again and answer the questions.

- 1 What two habits show that the people in Singapore love food?
- 2 What did the blog writer eat with her fish head curry?
- 3 Why can't you buy food on the street in Singapore?
- 4 Why didn't she have sup tulang at the Golden Mile Food Centre?
- 5 Why didn't she eat anything in the Arab Quarter?
- 6 Which area of Singapore did she not go to?

f Imagine you are visiting Singapore. Where will you go? What will you eat?

I'd really like to go to a big hawker centre, so we can see all the different options.

- 1 to meet friends for a chat and a drink
- 2 a birthday or an anniversary
- 3 a party at the end of term or the end of a language course a café a cheap restaurant an expensive restaurant a venue with music or dancing (e.g. a club)

- b Compare your ideas. Do you agree?

- c Listen to Jeff, Fabio and Carla. Which places in photos 1–3 are they talking about?

- d Listen again and answer the questions.

- 1 Why doesn't Jeff like the atmosphere at expensive restaurants?
- 2 What does he say about the food?
- 3 Does Fabio go to cafés alone, or with friends, or both?
- 4 Why does he like pavement cafés?
- 5 What does Carla do before she starts dancing?
- 6 What kind of music does her favourite place play?

- e Think of one place to go out that you really like and one that you don't really like. Make notes about their good and bad points.

- f Discuss your places. If your partner(s) know the two places you chose, do they agree?

2 READING

- a Read the four reviews of a café on p.77. The first review gave five stars (= excellent). How many stars do you think the other reviews gave?

- b Read reviews a–d again. Underline any words or phrases that are used to describe the things below.

- | | |
|--|-------------------|
| 1 the atmosphere | 4 the service |
| 2 the kind of food and drinks they serve | 5 value for money |
| 3 the quality of the food | 6 the location |

'Very highly recommended.
Would go back again.'

I came here on my birthday. The coffee and cakes were delicious and there was a relaxing atmosphere, with plenty of space. The staff were very friendly and gave us free birthday drinks. I can definitely recommend this café and I'll be going back.'

'Visited twice in 3 days!'

We had lovely food here. The fish was very fresh and they had delicious salads. It's also a great place to just sit and relax. The second time we went, we just ordered drinks and the waiters were friendly and left us alone. We stayed for three hours! It's right in the town centre, so it's a bit noisy, but it's a convenient place to meet and fairly easy to get to. It's definitely worth a visit!

'Completely overrated'

We had seen good reviews of this café, but it was extremely disappointing. The service was awful – we waited for 30 minutes before anyone even noticed we were there. We ordered pasta, but it was overcooked and the sauce was completely tasteless. My soup was tasty, but it was half cold and I had to send it back. The waiters were friendly enough but they were so slow.

'A nice place to meet friends'

This is a bright, friendly café and they also serve good food, although the portions aren't very generous and it's a bit overpriced. I usually go there just for a drink. It's got a fairly pleasant atmosphere and the service is always reasonably friendly and relaxed. I'd recommend it as a place to have a drink with friends, but it might be better to eat somewhere else.

3 WRITING SKILLS

Positive and negative language; adverbs

- a Add the adjectives or phrases from the reviews above to the table.

positive	fairly positive delicious	friendly enough fairly negative	negative
a bit noisy	awful

- b Compare your answers. Did you choose the same adjectives and phrases?

- c The two sentences below are similar in meaning. Do you think that in sentence 1 ... ?

- a the writer isn't sure what he/she thinks b the writer doesn't want to be too negative

- 1 The portions weren't very generous.
2 The portions were absolutely tiny.

- d Which of the sentences are slightly negative (like sentence 1 in 3c)? Which are very negative (like sentence 2 in 3c)?

- 1 It was extremely disappointing.
2 The bread wasn't very fresh.
3 The sauce was completely tasteless.
4 My soup wasn't really hot enough.
5 The portions were rather small.
6 The service was awful.

- e Do we use these adverbs to make adjectives or phrases stronger or weaker?

a bit absolutely completely extremely fairly not really not very quite rather really reasonably terribly

- f Change the strong comments in the sentences in 3d so that they sound weaker. Change the weaker comments so that they sound stronger.

- 1 It was a bit disappointing. 2 The bread was really old.

4 WRITING A review

- a Choose two places you know (restaurants, cafés or venues with music). Think of one place you like a lot and one place you don't really like. Make notes about the points below:

- general atmosphere
- location
- how busy it is
- what they serve
- quality of food
- service
- friendliness
- prices
- value for money

- b Compare your ideas with a partner.

- c Write two reviews, one for each place.

- d Work in pairs. Read your partner's reviews. Check that your partner has done the things below.

- 1 covered all the points in 4a
2 used appropriate adjectives and phrases
3 used adverbs appropriately

- e Show your reviews to other students. If they know the places, do they agree?

Do you find hotels too cold and unfriendly? Do you want to live like a local when you go on holiday? A new generation of websites, such as Airbnb, can help you find privately owned rooms, apartments and houses to rent.

'Hosts' create profiles of places to rent. 'Guests' can browse the profiles, read reviews written by guests and make reservations online. Prices range from about £25 to £100 per night, depending on the accommodation and the location.

But what's it like to stay at a stranger's house when you're on holiday? And if you're a host, what's it like to open your home to people you don't know? We spoke to some guests and hosts to find out.

WHAT THE GUESTS SAY ...

Antonia My friend and I stayed in this amazing modern villa in California for ten days. It had eight bedrooms, a pool and the biggest kitchen I've ever seen (in which Jeff, our host, cooked fantastic breakfasts for us!). Jeff was so nice. He gave us lots of information about the local area and invited us to join him for dinner. We ended up becoming good friends – he's going to come and stay in my house when he comes to Italy next year.

Kumi I've stayed in Berlin a few times, but I've always stayed in a hotel. This experience was completely different. I had the whole of the top floor of an old house, and the rent included a bicycle too, which was great for travelling about. The hosts (Karl and Alexandra) were very kind, and we had good conversations every mealtime. They let me use the kitchen, which was great as the restaurants nearby are quite expensive. The shopkeepers in the area knew I was staying at Karl and Alexandra's and they were all very friendly. I felt like a local by the end of the week!

f What might be the advantages and disadvantages of being an Airbnb host?

g Read What the hosts say .... Do they mention the advantages and disadvantages you talked about?

WHAT THE HOSTS SAY ...

Roberto I've been an Airbnb host for three years. In that time I've met some wonderful people – musicians, families, sportspeople, professors, hikers and students – who've needed accommodation for different reasons. They've come from different parts of the world and it's been a pleasure to get to know them. The only problem is that you have to do so much washing and cleaning!

Lisa Some people worry about theft, but I've had more than 100 guests and no one has ever stolen anything from me. Some guests are nicer than others, of course, but on the whole they've been charming and friendly. I usually ask people why they're travelling when they make a reservation. It's a good way to get to know a bit about them.

Clara My family has a holiday cottage in Scotland. We decided to rent it out when we're not using it. It was easy to set up the profile on the website. You have to trust people to treat your property as if it was their own home, but we only accept reservations from guests who have good reviews.

4 SPEAKING

a Look at the buildings below and discuss the questions:

- 1 How old is the building?
- 2 Where is it?
- 3 What do you think it's like inside?
- 4 Would you like to live there?

b Imagine you are going on holiday with your partner. Discuss which of the houses/flats you would like to stay in. Can you agree on one house/flat to visit?

I'd like to stay in the New York flat in 'e'.

It must be a really great city to visit.

h Read the texts above again and match the words in bold with the definitions.

- 1 a building that someone owns
- 2 place(s) to stay
- 3 a small house in the countryside
- 4 an enjoyable experience
- 5 the crime of stealing something
- 6 an arrangement to stay somewhere (e.g. a hotel room)

- b Read Five reasons why small towns are better than cities. Do you agree with the reasons in the list? Can you add any more reasons?
- c Think of five reasons why cities are better places to live than small towns. Tell a partner.
- d Listen to Tim and Kate's conversation. Are Tim's reasons the same as yours in 1c?

- e 2.44 Listen again. Are these statements T (true) or F (false)?

- 1 Kate grew up in a small town.
- 2 Tim wouldn't want to live in a small town.
- 3 Kate thinks small towns are safer.
- 4 More people have driving accidents in the city than in the country.
- 5 People who live in the country have a smaller carbon footprint.

- f Discuss the questions.

- 1 Where do you think it's safer to live in your country – in the city or in the countryside? Think about:
 - driving
 - crime
 - hospitals
 - other ideas
- 2 Is your (nearest) city designed in a way that's good for the environment? Why / Why not?
- 3 How could your (nearest) city be better? Think about:
 - public transport
 - cycle lanes
 - other ideas

Five reasons

why small towns are better than cities

1 There are no traffic jams. You don't need to spend hours trying to get to work. Fantastic!

2 Everyone knows your name. And who your parents are. And they help you when times are bad.

3 EVERYTHING is cheaper – eating out, buying houses, even going to the cinema.

4 You don't have to queue for the most popular restaurant in town. You probably know the waiter, anyway.

5 You can't get lost. Who cares if you don't have any signal on your phone – you don't need GPS!

3 GRAMMAR Quantifiers

a Discuss the questions.

- 1 Are there parks and other green spaces where you live?
- 2 What activities can people do there?
- 3 How often do you use them?

b Look at the photo of the High Line Park on p.84 and below. What's unusual about it? Read The High Line, New York City and check.

c Read the article again. Underline the correct words.

- 1 There are lots of / enough species of plants in the High Line park.
- 2 How much / many visitors go to the park each year?
- 3 There is very little / too much crime in the park
- 4 Jen thinks there are very few / too many tourists there.
- 5 The website contains lots of / not enough information.
- 6 There's not much / too much rubbish in the park.

THE HIGH LINE, NEW YORK CITY

Even the most enthusiastic city lover needs green spaces from time to time. In New York, one of the best places to find some nature is The High Line. Originally a 1930s railway bridge, this park opened in 2006 – ten metres above the street! It has more than 200 species of plants and spectacular views over the Hudson River. The park now attracts 4 million visitors a year, who escape the city streets to take a walk, take photos, and even get something to eat at one of the cafés. The High Line website (www.thehighline.org) is full of useful information about the history of the park and how they built it.

WHAT THE LOCALS SAY

I love The High Line. Calm and beautiful. It's safe too – apparently the crime rate is very low. Pablo

It used to be a lovely quiet place to go. Now it's full of tourists. Don't go at weekends! But one good thing is that it's quite clean and tidy – they clean up all the rubbish regularly. Jen

Make sure that you allow plenty of time. You need about three hours to see it properly. There's a lot to see – and you don't want to miss any of it! Kira

d Now go to Grammar Focus 7B on p.144

e Write sentences about each of the places below. Use quantifiers and the words in the box, and your own ideas. Don't include the name of the place.

- a city area that you know
- a country area that you know noise crime space people flowers things to do shops cafés wildlife views pollution traffic

f Read out your sentences. Can your partner guess where the places are?

A lot of people go there at weekends, but there's enough space for everyone.

There aren't many shops or cafés.

Is it the beach?

4 SPEAKING

a You are going to talk about the area where you live. Make notes about these questions:

- Is it a healthy or safe place to live? Why / Why not?
- What do people complain about? (e.g. the noise, the roads)

b Take turns to talk about your areas. Would the places you talk about be good to live in for these people?

- a teenager who likes film and music
- a family with young children
- an elderly couple
- someone who likes sport and outdoor activities

- 2 Did the people you were with want to do the same things as you or different things?
- 3 Think of a holiday you would like to go on. What would you do on the holiday?

2 READING AND LISTENING

a You're going to read about Miami. Before you do, discuss the questions.

- 1 Where is Miami? Have you ever been there?
Do you know anyone who's been there?
- 2 What is it like, or what do you imagine it's like?

Talk about:

- the weather
- the people
- buildings
- the atmosphere
- things to see and do

b Read about the top five things to do in and around Miami. Which would you like to do? Why? Are there any you would not want to do? Why not?

c [2.55] Sue is talking to a colleague. Listen to their conversation and answer the questions.

- 1 How many people are in Sue's family?
- 2 Where are they staying?
- 3 Which of the 'top five things' are they going to do?

d [2.55] Listen again and make notes in the table.

Where does he/ she want to go?	Why does he/she want to go there?
Sue's daughter
Sue's son
Sue's husband
Sue

e Do you think Sue is looking forward to the holiday? Why / Why not?

Top five things to do ... in and around Miami, Florida

1 Admire the architecture of Miami Beach

Wander the streets of Miami Beach and admire the art deco hotels and houses from the 1930s. The movie stars from the 1930s stayed here when they came to Miami. Many of the buildings have been repainted in their original colours.

2 Go to the beach

Miami has endless sandy beaches along the coast. You can find crowds if you want them or you can have a beach to yourself. And the water is always warm.

3 Visit the Everglades

Ninety minutes from Miami are the Everglades, a huge area of natural swamp which is home to alligators, snakes and rare birds. Take a boat through the area and get a close-up view of the wildlife.

4 Spend a day at Disney World

Disney World is just a day's drive away from Miami – a great day trip. You can find all the characters from Disney films and have hours of fun with (or without) your kids.

5 Take a trip to Cape Canaveral

North of Miami is Cape Canaveral, where the USA sends its rockets into space. You can take a tour round the Kennedy Space Center and see where they built the Apollo space rockets.

3 READING

a Read the note below which Sue's cousin left in the apartment in Miami. Underline the correct words.

- 1 The streets are safe in the daytime / all the time.
- 2 The apartment is in the centre of / just outside Miami.
- 3 The apartment is right next to / far from the sea.
- 4 Jutka will be away for a week / more than a week.

b Which adjectives in the box best describe the tone of the note? What words or phrases in the note helped you decide?

friendly formal funny practical c Match the purposes a-f with sections 1-6 in the note.

- a to explain options for buying food
- b to give information about going to places further away
- c to finish the note
- d to greet the reader and say what the note is about
- e to give safety advice about the area round the apartment
- f to give information about things in the apartment

d What general order are the paragraphs in? Choose the correct answer.

- 1 things the reader needs to know now → things they need later
- 2 things which are very important → things which are less important
- 3 things which are less important → things which are more important

1 Welcome to Miami! Hope you have a nice stay in the apartment. Here are a few things you need to know ...

2 Please make yourselves at home and help yourselves to anything in the kitchen. There's some chicken in the fridge, and lots of fruit and salad, so that should be enough for a couple of meals. I also got a couple of pizzas for the kids – they're in the freezer.

3 After that, you'll need to go shopping. The best place is the Sunshine Center. Go out of the main entrance of the apartment and turn left, and you'll see it about 100 metres down the road. It's got a couple of supermarkets, a good bookshop and a few good places to eat. Otherwise, there's a good place for burgers a bit further down the road. Apart from that, there are some good restaurants by the sea, but they're a bit further away.

4 By the way, if you do go out in the evening, don't walk around late at night – the streets round here are not very safe at night, though they're OK during the daytime.

5 Anyway, the car's in the parking lot, so you can use that for any trips. If you're going into Miami, another possibility is to take the train, but you'll find the car easier! You'll also need the car to go to the beach. The nearest one is Golden Beach, about 15 minutes' drive away. Another option is Ocean Beach, about 30 minutes further north, which is usually much less crowded. Alternatively, you could try Miami Beach nearer the centre, but it can be difficult to park.

6 Enjoy your stay and see you in a fortnight!

Love,
Jutka

4 WRITING SKILLS Offering choices

- 7 things that look real but aren't: f_____

e Discuss the questions.

- 1 Have you ever seen breaking news on Facebook or Twitter before it was on TV? What was it? Was it true?
- 2 Have you ever shared a photo or news story that you later discovered to be false?
- 3 Do you agree that social media can 'save lives and change the world'? Why / Why not?

EVERYONE'S A JOURNALIST

On 15 January 2009, several interesting things happened. Firstly, a plane crash-landed into the Hudson River, right in the middle of New York City. The pilot, crew and 155 passengers all escaped safely. But then, something else happened ...

Jim Hanrahan was nearby and watched the event happen. He immediately tweeted that he had just seen a plane crash in the Hudson. From there the news spread quickly. People contacted him immediately and asked him what was happening, and other people on the street took photos and videos with their phones and posted them online. Ordinary people suddenly became journalists. It was 15 minutes before the news broke on official news channels.

Photos, videos and tweets from ordinary people at the scene of dramatic events now provide the words and images that describe events in the news. When a meteor exploded over the Russian city of Chelyabinsk in 2013, millions of people around the world watched videos and photos of the event on Facebook and YouTube. When NASA discovered ice on Mars, it used Twitter to spread the news. 'Are you ready to celebrate?' they tweeted. 'We have ICE!!!! Yes, ICE, WATER ICE on Mars!' News from another planet suddenly felt personal.

Social media can also save lives. In January 2010, an earthquake hit the Caribbean island of Haiti. The government said that there had been an earthquake, but they didn't give many details at first. Meanwhile, people living in the disaster area were posting photos and eyewitness accounts on Twitter and Facebook and telling the world that it was an emergency and houses were collapsing. Carel Pedre, a local radio presenter, used this information in his reports to help people find family members, and people even phoned his programme to ask if their relatives were safe.

News travels fast on social media, but false stories spread just as quickly as the truth. Some of these are 'facts' reported in error, others are deliberate hoaxes. When Hurricane Sandy hit the east coast of the USA in 2012, many of the dramatic photos of storms and floods were real. But did you see the photos of stormy skies above the Brooklyn Bridge? Did you see the photos of seals and sharks in the streets? Or the deep-sea diver in the New York subway? These photos were all fakes – either real photos from other events or computer-generated images.

Hoaxes like these remind us that not everything people post and publish is reliable. But social media can change our lives for the better. In the words of Carel Pedre, 'May we continue to use Twitter to save lives and change the world!'

'It's worth travelling 100 miles to get there!'

I enjoy going to the country's best restaurants and I've wanted to try this 'restaurant on a boat' for a long time. The location keeps changing depending on the season and making a reservation isn't easy. But we managed to get a table and had an absolutely wonderful evening. You choose your fish from the menu, then a member of staff goes fishing to catch it for you! It's easy to see why this place gets so many five-star reviews.

Dean 56, Bristol, UK

Was the review helpful? Yes No

VOCABULARY Shopping

Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you prefer browsing online, or in real shops?

 - His mother went to the airport to look for him.
 - The boy spoke to the children in the other family.
 - The boy didn't have a boarding pass.
 - They didn't count the passengers before they took off.
 - The airline offered the mother free flights in the future.
 - It's the first time something like this has ever happened.
- 3.17 Listen again and check your answers.

- Discuss the questions.

- Do you think something like this could happen in your country?
- Do you think airport security in your country is:
 - too strict
 - not strict enough
 - about right?

2 READING

- Look at the headline of a similar news story below. What do you think happened? Choose a or b.
 - He drove the car himself.
 - He was a passenger in the car.
- a He flew the plane himself.
b He was a passenger on the plane.
- Read the story quickly and check your answers to 2a.
- Read the story again. Note down things that are the same as in the story you listened to.

13-YEAR-OLD BOY DRIVES TO AIRPORT AND FLIES ACROSS USA

Kenton Weaver is 13 years old and has no photo ID. But that didn't stop him from stealing his father's car in the middle of the night, driving more than 20 miles to a Florida airport and taking two connecting flights to San José, California. 'I really enjoyed it,' said Kenton.

Kenton's mother, Kim Casey, lives just half an hour from San José airport in Fresno, California, but the boy's father, Dean Weaver, thinks it was the journey itself that interested the boy. According to Dean, his son is fascinated by airplanes. 'He'll do anything to go to an airport,' Dean said. 'He wants to be a pilot.'

Kenton did not own a credit card, passport, driver's licence, or photo ID of any kind. Yet he was able somehow to buy a plane ticket, go through airport security, fly to Chicago and catch his connecting flight to San José without any problems. His father said it is possible Kenton used the numbers from one of his own credit cards to buy the ticket online.

3 WRITING SKILLS

Summarising information

a Read a summary of the news story. Which words or phrase in bold tell us ... ?

- 1 that the person is reporting a story he/she read or heard about somewhere
- 2 that the person is commenting on what happened

There was an incredible story in the newspaper last week. Apparently, a boy of 13 stole his father's car, drove it to the airport and then took two flights from Florida to California to see his mother, who lives there. Amazingly, he did all this without a credit card, ID or driver's licence. It seems that he used his father's credit card number to buy the plane ticket online and no-one asked him any questions. Fortunately, they found the car and everything was all right in the end.

b Look at audioscript 3.17 on p.171. Find more words used to comment on the story.

c Compare the sentences below with the highlighted sentence in the summary in 3a. Answer questions 1–4.

A boy of 13 stole his father's car. The boy drove it to the airport. The boy took two flights from Florida to California. The boy flew there to see his mother. His mother lives in California.

- 1 How many sentences are in this part of the summary?
- 2 What words are added to join the sentences together in 3a?
- 3 What words are left out or changed in the summary in 3a? Why?
- 4 Why is the summary in 3a better than the sentences in 3c?

d Here is a different summary of the same news story. Join the sentences together to make four or five sentences. Use the words in the box to help you (you can use the words more than once).

and before but who with

I read an incredible news story about a boy. Apparently he flew alone from Florida to California. He was only 13. He managed to fly alone across America. He even changed planes in Chicago. He bought a ticket online. He used his father's credit card number. No one at the airport asked him any questions. He even took his father's car. He parked it in the airport car park. He got on the plane.

e Work in pairs and compare your summaries. Are they the same?

4 WRITING

a Work in pairs. Choose one of the news headlines below or a story in the news at the moment. Discuss and make notes about what happened.

2 LISTENING

a Look at the four film posters and discuss the questions.

- 1 What do you know about these films?
- 2 Did they use CGI (computer-generated imagery) and special effects?

b Look at the information below about a radio programme. What do you think the presenters will say about CGI?

The Big View

Ellie and Nick exchange views on art and entertainment.

Tonight's show

'Has CGI taken the heart out of modern film-making?'

c 3.21 Listen to the programme. Do both presenters think there is too much CGI in modern films?

d 3.21 Listen again. Are the sentences true (T) or false (F)?

- 1 Ellie says that directors seem to be more focused on special effects than the story.
- 2 Casablanca was filmed in Paris.
- 3 The fight scene in Inception was made using CGI.
- 4 Nick thinks that good directors should be able to use technology well.

e Discuss the questions.

- 1 Can you think of other examples of ... ?
 - films that have no CGI or special effects
 - films that use CGI and other special effects
- 2 Have you seen these films? Did you like them?
- 3 Who do you agree with most – Nick or Ellie? Why?

READING

Look at the two film posters on the right and discuss the questions.

Have you seen these films? If not, would you like to? How are the two films similar? How are they different?

Read Film-making has changed a lot in the last 100 years. Did check your ideas. Does the writer prefer traditional animated films, or films made with modern technology?

Read the article again. What do these numbers refer to?

33 1,500,000 4 24 10,318 1937 525 3

Discuss the questions.

What animated films like this have you seen?

What did you think of them?

Do you agree with the last sentence of the article?

FILM-MAKING HAS CHANGED A LOT IN THE LAST 100 YEARS – OR HAS IT ...?

They're slow. They're boring. They don't have any special effects. That's the opinion many people have about old movies. But some film directors continue to use film-making techniques that have not changed nearly a hundred years, and the results can be charming and fun.

The Pirates! In an Adventure with Scientists!, created by British company Aardman Animations, is one example. It took five years to make this extremely ambitious film, using the 'stop-frame' filming technique. For every second of finished film, the puppets and models in each scene were moved up to 24 times. On average, it took a whole day to make just four seconds of screen action. A total of 525 people – including 33 animators – worked on the production. This kind of film-making requires great attention to detail. For example, pins were used to make tiny changes to the models. In total, 10,318 puppet mouths were used during filming to create realistic face movements.

The puppets in each scene were moved up to 24 times.

However, nearly a hundred years ago, Walt Disney was doing something very similar. Back in 1937, his team made the first ever full-length animated feature film, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. He also used the stop-frame technique. In this case, each frame was drawn by hand. More than 1,500,000 frames were used in total. The film took three years to make and cost six times more to make than Disney had planned.

Snow White was hugely successful and it is still loved today by children around the world. There is no doubt that Aardman Animations' films will be enjoyed in the same way for many years to come. Films that use modern technology may be dramatic and exciting, but hand-made films will always be more impressive and fun to watch.

UNIT 9

4 GRAMMAR The passive

a We use be + a past participle to make a passive verb form. Are the underlined verbs active (A) or passive (P)?

- 1 They don't have any special effects.
- 2 It took five years to make this extremely ambitious film.
- 3 Here, a pin is being used to move the puppet's eyes.
- 4 Thousands of frames were drawn by hand.
- 5 The film cost six times more to make than Disney had planned.
- 6 Snow White is still loved today by children.
- 7 Aardman Animations' films will be enjoyed in the same way for many years to come.

b 3.22 Pronunciation Listen to the passive sentences in 4a. Is the auxiliary verb be stressed in these sentences?

c 3.22 Listen again to the passive sentences in 4a and practise saying them.

d Underline the correct words in the rules.

We can use the passive when:

- 1 we know / don't know who did an action
- 2 it's obvious / not obvious who did an action
- 3 it's important / not important who did an action.

Thousands of frames were drawn by hand.

Small changes to the puppets were made with a pin.

- 4 We can use by / with + noun after a passive verb when we say what is used to do the action.
- 5 We can use by / with + noun after a passive verb when we say what/who does the action.

3 GRAMMAR

Defining and non-defining relative clauses

- a Look at the underlined relative clauses. Circle the noun phrase which each relative clause gives more information about.

- 1 It was my grandmother who started it.
- 2 It's a drum you play with your hands.
- 3 I was sitting next to one of the people who was in my group.
- 4 It's the kind of place where you could sit and chat all night.

- b Look at the two sentences below and underline the correct answer in the rule.
- 1 It's a drum (which/that) you play with your hands.
 - 2 It was my grandmother who/that started it.

In defining relative clauses, we need to / don't need to use who, which or that when the noun is the object of the relative clause.

- c 3.26 Pronunciation Listen to the sentences. In which sentence do you hear a pause before and after the relative pronoun in bold?
- 1 People who sing a lot always seem happy.
 - 2 Carly, who's a fantastic singer, works in a café during the day.

- d ► Now go to Grammar Focus 9B on p.148

- a Speaking Discuss the questions.

- 1 Have you ever been to a music festival?
- 2 If so, what kind of music was there? Did you enjoy it? Why / Why not?
- 3 If not, do you know of any music festivals you would like to go to? What are they like?

- b Read The three best music festivals you've probably never heard of. Which festival would you rather go to? Why?

The three best music festivals you've probably never heard of

Fuji Rock Festival, Japan

Enjoy rock and electronic music at the foot of Mount Fuji

This is Japan's largest outdoor music event. It's held every year at the Naeba Ski Resort. You can enjoy the beauty of the forests and rivers as you walk (often quite a long way!) from one stage to another. This is one of the world's safest and most environmentally friendly festivals, which is probably why everyone's happiness levels are so high!

Past performers include: Radiohead, Coldplay, Massive Attack

Roskilde, Denmark

A rock festival that gives all its profits to charity

Here, you can enjoy rock, punk, heavy metal, hip hop, indie and music from around the world. The organisers donate all the money they make to projects for social and cultural development.

Don't forget that summer days are long in Denmark. It doesn't get dark until 11 pm, and it starts getting light at 3.30 am.

Past performers include: Metallica, Bruce Springsteen, Rihanna

Read the article again and match the comments with the festivals. Write F (Fuji Rock Festival), R (Roskilde) or C (Coachella).

- 1 'Even the toilet paper is made from recycled cups from last year's festival!'
- 2 'I'm glad I took a good pair of walking boots with me.'
- 3 'The nights were so short!'
- 4 'There was a huge wooden butterfly.'
- 5 'It's really good to know that all the money goes to good causes.'
- 6 'The second weekend was great.'

 - live performances (plays, concerts, etc.)
 - recorded performances (albums, films, etc.)
- d Do you agree with Camila, or do you like going to live concerts?

2 READING

- a Read Julia's blog, Why I prefer to stay at home. What is her main point?
 - 1 Films are too expensive and it's cheaper to stay at home.
 - 2 It's more comfortable and convenient to watch films and TV series at home.
 - 3 Films are less satisfying than TV programmes.
- b Read the blog again and answer the questions.
 - 1 What annoys Julia about cinema audiences?
 - 2 Why were the couple sitting behind her rude?
 - 3 What does she do if she finds a film boring?
 - 4 Why is the length of a TV series sometimes a good thing?

Why I prefer to stay at home

- ① What was your last cinema experience like? I remember the expensive tickets, the long queues and the uncomfortable seats. Does this sound familiar? I love going out to see my friends, going to parties or clubs. I like having fun. However, I don't really enjoy going to the cinema any more.
- ② The other problem for me is the audience at cinemas. Although many people say that seeing a film at a cinema is a good chance to go out and be sociable, I really hate listening to other people's comments. The last time I went to the cinema, there was a couple who commented loudly on everything in the film. They laughed at everything in the film, really loudly – even at things which weren't funny! I politely asked them to be quiet. Despite this, they continued as if they were watching their own TV. If I watch something at home, I can invite my friends and spend time with people I know and like rather than sitting near noisy strangers.
- ③ Another reason for staying at home is convenience. I like to watch films or TV shows when I want to watch them, not at specific times. In spite of my love of films and TV shows, I don't enjoy all of them. If I'm at home, I can stop the film and watch something else or I can fast-forward through the boring bits. For example, I was really disappointed with a film I saw last night – so I just switched it off.
- ④ While I watch a lot of films, I also watch a lot of TV shows online now. I really enjoy watching a whole series. It gives characters time to develop in interesting and unexpected ways. In fact, there are so many great TV shows to watch, I've hardly got time to go to the cinema.
- ⑤ So these days, when my friends invite me to the cinema, I usually say, 'No thanks'. I really do prefer to watch films and TV series at home. I can choose what I want to watch, I can choose the time when I want to watch it and I can choose who I watch it with. The question really is: why should I go out?

3 WRITING SKILLS Contrasting ideas; the structure of an article a In the example below, however introduces a contrast. Find more examples of words used to contrast ideas in the blog in 2a.

I like having fun. However, I don't really enjoy going to the cinema any more.

b Complete the rules and examples with the words in the box. Use each word twice.

although despite however in spite of while

- I enjoy films. ¹ _____, I think I prefer TV series. We can use ² _____ at the beginning of a sentence. It contrasts with an idea in the previous sentence.
- ³ _____ / ⁴ _____ cinemas have become more comfortable, they're not as comfortable as my sofa. We can use ⁵ _____ and ⁶ _____ at the beginning of a sentence to introduce a contrasting idea. They are followed by a clause with a verb.
- The price of cinema tickets has gone up recently. ⁷ _____ / ⁸ _____ the cost, I still love the movies. We can use ⁹ _____ and ¹⁰ _____ at the beginning of the sentence to introduce a contrasting idea. They are followed by a noun or pronoun.

c Match ideas 1–6 with a contrasting idea a–f. Join the ideas using the words in brackets. Write only one sentence, if possible.

- 1 I was given two free tickets to a jazz concert (However)
- 2 music is something we normally listen to (Although)
- 3 TV screens have got bigger and bigger (Although)
- 4 the beat is very important in hip-hop music (While)
- 5 the convenience of watching a film at home (In spite of)
- 6 my love of special effects (Despite)

- a singers still have to know how to sing a tune.
- b I don't like that kind of music, so I'll give them away.
- c there's nothing like the big screen at the cinema.
- d I still want films to have a good story and good acting.
- e it's always interesting to watch musicians perform.
- f I prefer to see films at a cinema.

d Look at paragraphs 2–4 in the blog on p.112. What is the main idea of each paragraph? Choose a or b.

Paragraph 2:

a cinema audiences b being polite in cinemas

Paragraph 3:

a boring films b the convenience of staying at home

Paragraph 4:

a the length of TV series b an alternative to watching films

e Discuss the questions.

- 1 Is the main idea mentioned at the beginning or in the middle of the paragraph?
- 2 Does the writer sometimes use examples?
- 3 How does the writer get the reader's attention in paragraph 1, the introduction?
- 4 In paragraph 5, the conclusion, does the writer introduce new ideas? Why / Why not?

4 WRITING An article

a You are going to write an article about a kind of entertainment you love or hate. Choose one of the topics below or your own idea. Then make notes about questions 1–4.

- music concerts in stadiums or in small clubs
- watching sport in a stadium or live on TV
- classical music or pop music

- 1 What's your opinion on this topic?
- 2 What experience do you have of it?
- 3 What other things do you know about it?
- 4 What do other people often say about it?

b Compare your ideas with a partner.

c Plan your article. Follow these instructions:

- 1 Write down the main ideas of the article.
- 2 Write down different points for each idea.
- 3 Think of any examples from your experience.

d Write your article. Make sure you write an introduction and conclusion. Remember to use words or phrases to show contrast.

UNIT 9

Review and extension

1 GRAMMAR

a Read the text and underline the correct words.

Can you imagine a film ¹*who / which* had no music? It would be very boring. Here are two talented film composers ²*what / that* everyone should know about.

John Williams ³*sees / is seen* as one of the greatest film composers of all time. He ⁴*has nominated / has been nominated* for more awards than anyone else, apart from Walt Disney. Williams, ⁵*whose / who* music can be heard in the Harry Potter and Star Wars films, is most famous for working with director Steven Spielberg on many of his films.

The music for Titanic, The Amazing Spider-Man and more than 100 other films was written ⁶*with / by* pianist and composer James Horner. In his compositions, Horner often uses Celtic music, ⁷*which / that* is traditional music from Western Europe.

b Complete the second sentence so that it means the same as the first sentence (or pair of sentences). Use three words in each gap.

- 1 The film was based on a book. I loved it when I was a child.
The film was based on a _____ when I was a child.
- 2 That's the place. The final scene was filmed there.
That's the place _____ scene was filmed.
- 3 Catching Fire is the second film in the Hunger Games series. Catching Fire came out in 2013.
Catching Fire, _____ in 2013, is the second film in the Hunger Games series.
- 4 People are forgetting many traditional folk songs
Many traditional folk songs _____.
- 5 They were recording the concert when I was there.
The concert _____ when I was there.

2 VOCABULARY

a Read the text and underline the correct words.

The epic historical film, Les Misérables, is based ¹*on / at* the book in which the different ²*characters / performers* fight for social change in 19th-century France. ³*Character / Director* Tom Hooper successfully combines big dramatic ⁴*frames / scenes* with quieter moments. What makes the film so powerful is that the songs weren't recorded in a ⁵*scene / studio*: all the actors sang ⁶*live / tune* as they were filmed. Music played by ⁷*an orchestra / a performance* was added after filming had finished.

b Complete the sentences with noun forms of the words in brackets.

- 1 The festival is a _____ of music from different cultures. (celebrate)
- 2 We'd like to thank the _____ for all their hard work in preparing the show. (organise)
- 3 This film shows the _____ of the Pacific Islands. (beautiful)
- 4 The _____ are preparing for their _____ this evening. (music; perform)

Are you making the most of life's opportunities?

ANNA

I had my own business, but needed a website. My friend Wendy gave me the email address of a designer called Mark. Unfortunately, Wendy's handwriting is awful, so I sent the email to the wrong person. Someone called Matt replied. Obviously, there had been a mistake. He said he wasn't actually a designer – he was a primary school teacher – but he could help me if I wanted!

Matt seemed nice. And anyway, I didn't have anyone else to help me, so I decided to write back to him. In the end, Matt worked on my website for free. He did a great job and my business started to go really well. Meanwhile, we got to know each other via email. And ten months later, we met. We fell in love immediately, and a year later, we got married. If Wendy had had better handwriting, my business wouldn't have been such a success, and I certainly wouldn't have met Matt!

Two years ago, Anna Frances had some very good luck when her colleague gave her some wrong information.

So was Anna just lucky? Or did she make her own luck? Why do these lucky accidents seem to happen to some people and not to others? And is there any way to make yourself more lucky? Well, it seems that the secret of happiness is to make the most of the opportunities that life gives us. We need to be open to serendipity – the random events that lead to happy, sometimes life-changing, results.

Dr Stephan Makri is working on a project about serendipity at University College, London. He thinks that serendipity is more than an accident and that we can all have more 'luck' if we learn to pay attention to life's opportunities. He has noticed that many people's good-luck stories share the same basic pattern. First, people notice that there is an opportunity. Then, they take action to make the most of it. For example, if you imagine meeting an old friend in the street who will later introduce you to the love of your life, several things have to happen. First, you have to notice the friend. Then you have to stop and talk to them, even though you might be busy. Finally, you need to be ready to follow up on whatever comes out of the conversation. So, it might be luck that leads you to walk past the friend on the street – but the rest is up to you!

TOM

After university, I didn't have a job. I subscribed to a job website and got lots of emails from them every day. I usually deleted them. One day, I was feeling particularly annoyed by all the emails, so I opened one of them to click on the 'unsubscribe' link. But I spotted an interesting job. It was in the USA and I didn't really have the experience they wanted, but I decided to try. I didn't get the job, but they emailed me two weeks later to say they had another job I could apply for. I got it, and I ended up working in New York City, where I met my girlfriend Paula. None of it would have happened if I had deleted the email.

CARLA

My mum Betty is 71. There's a café in town that I like and I persuaded my mum to come with me, just to get out of the house. She didn't want to come at first, but when we got there she really liked the café. While we were there, she started chatting to some bikers. My mum said she had always wanted to ride a motorbike! I was shocked! Kenny, one of the bikers, offered to take us both out with the rest of the group. To my amazement, my mother said 'yes'! I was really worried, but actually, my mum loved the experience!

D Complete the sentences with the names in the box.

Anna Betty Carla Kenny Matt Tom

- 1 _____ failed at first, but was right to take a chance.
- 2 _____ did an activity she'd always wanted to do.
- 3 _____ was surprised by someone else's behaviour.
- 4 _____ did some work for someone, even though it wasn't his job.
- 5 _____ made contact with the wrong person.
- 6 _____ did something kind for someone the first time he met her.

E Discuss the questions.

- 1 Which person do you think was the 'luckiest'?
- 2 Do you agree that people make their own luck? Why / Why not?
- 3 Do you think that you are a lucky person? Do you make the most of life's opportunities in a similar way to the people in the stories?

3 VOCABULARY

Expressions with do, make and take

- a Underline the correct answers to complete the summary of Dr Makri's ideas.

Can we ¹take / make / do our own luck? Dr Makri has been ²doing / making / taking research into serendipity and he believes we can. The secret lies in ³doing / taking / making advantage of opportunity when it comes our way. If you see an opportunity in a chance event, you should ⁴take / make / do action and ⁵take / have / make the most of that opportunity.

Everyone can be 'luckier'. If you get out and meet people you'll have more chance encounters. Be brave and ⁶take / make / do risks in order to act freely when an opportunity comes your way.

- i Compare your sentences.

5 SPEAKING

- a You're going to tell the story of a past event that made your life better. Make notes about one of these topics:

- a good friend, and how you met him or her
- a sport or hobby, and how you started doing it
- an accident, and how it happened
- a job, and how you got it
- a school, and why you went there
- a big decision, and how you made it

Think about the important events in your story. What were the consequences of what happened? How would your life have been different if you had done something differently?

- b Take turns to tell your stories. Ask each other questions to find out more about what might have happened if things had been different.

What would have been different if you hadn't gone to that school?

I wouldn't have met my best friend, Gabriela.

everyone!

I've been thinking about what to do next year, and I thought I might take a year out and do some voluntary work. It could be my only chance and it would look good on my CV!

There's a site called NowVolunteer and they've got some amazing things you can do, like looking after elephants in Thailand or teaching English in China. The only problem is you have to raise about $500 for them first, but then they give you training and they pay for your accommodation.

Hi Vicky,

No wonder you don't want to go straight into an office job next year. Looking after elephants in Thailand sounds much more exciting! I think you should definitely go for it. You've got nothing much to lose (except a bit of money) and if it didn't work out you could always come back. But anyway, I'm pretty sure you'd enjoy it and have a great time – you always have been good with animals. It would definitely look good on your CV too. It would show that you're an adventurous person and you're interested in different things, not just studying and jobs. Pity I've got a job already or I'd come with you ;-)

Let me know what you decide.

Research shows that about 70% of the population are extroverts and about 30% of the population are introverts, but not many people are either extreme introverts or extreme extroverts.

Are you a confident introvert? A shy extrovert? Or something else?

How many 'yes' answers did you have?

Introverts don't need much external excitement in order to feel happy. They feel alive when they have time to focus on the thoughts and feelings inside them. If you had four or five 'yes' answers, then you're a sociable introvert. You really enjoy spending time with people, but you always need to balance it with time on your own to recharge your batteries.

Extroverts feel happiest when they have lots of external excitement. They get ideas from any kind of conversation and discussion, and they enjoy having people and activity around them. If you had more 'no' answers, then you're probably a quiet extrovert. You don't always say much when you're around other people, but you love the energy you get from their company.

You want to talk to Student A about a big presentation you have to do (where? what is it about?).

You're worried because:

- you don't have much time to prepare (when is it?)
- you don't have any experience of public speaking (what problems might you have?)
- you are worried people might ask difficult questions (what might they ask?).

Have the conversation. Reassure Student A when he/she talks about a trip he/she is going on, but try to bring the conversation back to your presentation.

1D READING Student B

Hi Vicky,

I'm not sure what I think about your idea of doing a gap year abroad. I can see that it might be exciting to go off to somewhere like Thailand or China for a year, but if I were you, I'd think very carefully about it before you make a decision.

I expect you'd have a good time, but you also need to think about getting a job after you come back. While you're away in Thailand everyone else will be going for jobs. Maybe it would be better to do something more closely connected with marketing. I'm not sure experience with elephants would help much in getting you a marketing job!

Anyway, I don't want to sound negative, but I'm just suggesting that you think about it first and make sure it's what you really want to do.

We could meet up and talk about it if you like.

Love,

Laura

Grammar Focus

1A Subject and object questions

Most questions in English need an auxiliary verb (e.g. do, be, have or a modal verb) before the subject. The auxiliary verb can be positive or negative.

▶ 1.5

Question word	Auxiliary verb or be	Subject	Main verb
	Can	I	borrow	your pen?
	Do	you	have	much homework?
Why	were	you		late?
Who	are	you	waiting	for?
How many people	have	you	invited	to the party?

▶ 1.6

When we ask about the subject of the verb, we use the same word order in the question as in the statement (subject – verb – object). Don't add an auxiliary verb to subject questions:

Who told you the news? (Stuart told me the news.)

What happened yesterday? (Nothing happened yesterday.)

Question word	Verb
Who	told	you the news?
What	happened	yesterday?
How many people	are coming	to the party?
Which team	won	the match?

In questions with prepositions, the preposition goes at the end of the question:

A Who did you go to the cinema with? B My sister.

A What's he talking about? B His job.

What ... like? and How ... ?

Use What ... like? to ask for a description of a person:

A What's your teacher like?

B She's very friendly.

Use How ... ? to ask about a person's health:

A How's your sister?

B She's very well, thanks.

You can use What ... like? or How ... ? to ask for a description of a thing or event:

A What was your holiday like? / How was your holiday?

B It was excellent.

1B Present simple and present continuous

▶ 1.8 Present simple

We use the present simple for:

- facts which are true all the time.

The sun rises in the east. The bus doesn't go past my house.

- habits and routines.

I study for about an hour a week. We never get much homework.

- opinions and beliefs.

Do you agree? I don't know the answer.

▶ 1.9 Present continuous

We use the present continuous for:

- actions which are in progress at the moment of speaking.

Why are you carrying an umbrella? It's not raining.

- actions or situations around the moment of speaking.

He's studying Russian at university.

- future arrangements (see 5A p.140).

I'm meeting Andrew tonight.

States and actions

The present continuous is not normally used to describe:

- mental states: know, agree, understand, believe, etc.
- likes and preferences: like, want, love, hate, need, prefer, etc.
- other states: be, own, belong, forget, hear, seem, depend, etc.

Special cases

Some verbs (e.g. think, see, have) can be used as states or actions, with different meanings:

State: I think you're wrong. (= my opinion)

Action: I'm thinking about my birthday. (= a mental process)

State: I see what you mean. (= I understand)

Action: I'm seeing the doctor tomorrow. (= I'm meeting him/her)

State: I have a car / a sister. (= possession, relationship, etc.)

Action: I'm having a party / a shower / dinner.

 A Really? Why ¹³ are you learning (you / learn) Russian?
 B I ¹⁴ am going (go) to Moscow next year for six months.

c Now go back to p.13

2A Present perfect simple and past simple

► 1.26 Present perfect simple

We use the present perfect simple to talk about:

- experiences in our lifetime, or another unfinished time period.
Have you ever had a job interview?

I've never worked in an office.

We can use adverbs like ever, never, three times, etc.

- news and recent events, often with a present result.
They've just offered me the job. (result = I've got a job.)

The interviews have already finished – you're too late.

(result = You can't have an interview.)

She hasn't called me back yet. (result = I'm still waiting to speak to her.)

We can use adverbs like just, already and yet.

- unfinished states (when we want to talk about the duration).
I've only had this phone for a week.

We've lived in London since 2010.

We use for to give the duration or since to give the starting point.

► 1.27 Past simple

We use the past simple for completed past actions in a completed past time period:

She didn't get the job.

The interviews finished five minutes ago.

Why did you miss the bus?

We often use past time phrases like last week, a few days ago, when I was a child.

► 1.28 Present perfect or past simple?

We often introduce a topic with the present perfect and then change to the past simple in the next sentence to talk about the details:

I've had lots of job interviews. The last one was about three months ago – it was terrible.

I've lost my keys. Maybe I left them on the bus this morning.

He hasn't worked here long. He started a few weeks ago.

Don't use the present perfect when you describe an action that happened at a particular time. Use a past tense instead:

They left yesterday / at four o'clock / ten minutes ago.

2B Present perfect simple and present perfect continuous

Unfinished actions and states (duration)

- We use the present perfect simple with state verbs:

We've owned this car for several years and it has never broken down.

She's known him since they were children. They're very good friends.

- We use the present perfect continuous with action verbs:

How long have you been waiting?

I've been working on my essay since 6 o'clock.

He's been playing very well so far in this match.

Some verbs (e.g. work, live) can be used as action verbs or state verbs with no important change of meaning:

How long have you worked here? / How long have you been working here?

Recent past actions with present results

- We use the present perfect simple when completing an action has a result now:

I've just finished my essay. (result of finishing writing = I can relax, I can hand in the work, etc.)

A The house looks lovely.

B Thanks! We've just painted it. (result of finishing painting = the house looks nice)

- We use the present perfect continuous when doing an activity has a result now:

I'm tired because I've been writing an essay. (result of writing = I'm tired.)

A What's that smell?

B We've been painting the living room. (result of painting = the house smells of paint)

New habits and repeated actions

- We use the present perfect continuous to describe repeated activities which started recently:

I've been doing a lot of exercise lately. (In the past, I didn't do much exercise.)

She's been coming to the gym with me three times a week. (She has recently started coming.)

► 1.29 Present perfect continuous

	I / you / we / they	he / she / it
+	I've been using a new app.	He's been using a new app.
-	I haven't been sleeping well.	She hasn't been sleeping well.
Y/N?	Have they been living abroad? Yes, they have . / No, they haven't .	Has she been living abroad? Yes, she has . / No, she hasn't .

3A Narrative tenses

1.42 Past simple

We use the past simple to describe the main events of a story in the order they happened:

*We met a few years ago. He offered to help me fix my car.
Later, we became good friends.*

1.43 Past continuous

We use the past continuous:

- to describe the situation at the beginning of a story.

That day, I was driving home from university for the summer.

- for longer actions in comparison with shorter actions in the past simple.

Where were you going when I saw you by the road?

I was trying to get home with some heavy bags when he stopped to help me.

- when actions are interrupted by main events in the past simple.

I was skiing in the French Alps when I had my accident.

We can connect past simple and past continuous actions with as, while and when:

Somebody stole my bag while I wasn't looking.

Your sister phoned while you were working.

He looked out the window while the train was going through the countryside.

The car broke down as I was driving down the road.

As we were walking along the road together, we chatted.

3B used to, usually

1.48

We use used to to describe past habits and states:

When I was at school, I used to play football every Saturday. (past habit)

The whole family used to love animals. We always had two or three pets in the house. (past state)

The negative forms are didn't use to and never used to:

*My parents didn't use to go out much, so we spent a lot of time together.
We never used to understand my dad's jokes.*

There is no present tense of used to. Use adverbs of frequency instead:

They usually go out to a restaurant once or twice a week.

How many times a month do you usually visit them?

You can also use adverbs of frequency with the past simple and a past time phrase (e.g. when I was a child, back then):

We went abroad for a holiday quite often back then.

We can use the adverbials not any more and not any longer to say that a past habit or state has now stopped:

I don't play football any more. I usually go to the gym instead.

They don't live in the same house any longer.

We can use the adverb still to talk about a past habit or state that has not changed:

I still love board games. I frequently play Chinese Chequers.

Do you still see him very often?

Don't use the past continuous for state verbs. Use the past simple instead:

We met when I was a student.

NOT ... when I was being a student.

1.44 Past perfect

We use the past perfect to describe an event that happened before the story started, or earlier in the story than a main event:

That summer, I had just finished my second year at university.

When we met, my car had broken down by the side of the road.

I hadn't taken my phone with me, so I couldn't phone for help.

Tip

We can use by + a time with the past perfect to show what happened up to a point in the past:

I started reading it on Monday and by Friday I'd read the whole book.

They were really late for the party. By the time they arrived, everyone else had gone home.

3A Narrative tenses

a Underline the correct options.

I ¹meeting / met my friend Alex while I ²was fixing / fixed my bike last year. The wheel ³fell / had fallen off and I ⁴was trying / had tried to put it back on. Alex ⁵had walked / was walking down the street when he ⁶saw / was seeing me and he ⁷was offering / offered to help. After that, we ⁸became / had become friends.

I ⁹met / had met my friend Anna in a hospital. I ¹⁰was being / was there because I ¹¹was falling / had fallen over and ¹²had broken / was breaking my arm. Anna ¹³was / had been there because she ¹⁴injured / had injured her foot. We ¹⁵started / were starting talking while we ¹⁶had waited / were waiting to see the doctor. By the time the doctor ¹⁷was arriving / arrived, we ¹⁸had become / became good friends.

b Complete the interview with the most suitable form of the verbs in brackets. Sometimes there is more than one possible answer.

- A When ¹ did the accident ²happen (happen)?
B It ³happened (happen) as I ⁴was driving (drive) along the High Street last night. I ⁵was (see) an old lady. Just as I ⁶turned (turn) left, she ⁷fell (fall) over onto the pavement right in front of me. I was pretty sure I could see why. A young man ⁸was (stop) my car and I ⁹jumped (jump) out. I ¹⁰ran (run) over to the old lady. She ¹¹was lying (lie) on the ground and she ¹²was crying (cry).
A ¹³Did you notice (you / notice) anything else?
B Yes ... a large flowerpot on the pavement. It ¹⁴was (be) broken.
A Where ¹⁵did it come (it / come) from?
B It ¹⁶had fallen (fall) from a window above the street. The young man ¹⁷pushed (push) the old lady out of the way. He ¹⁸saved (save) her life!

3B used to, usually a Complete the text with the correct words/phrases.

used-to-go use to have used to be went used to have usually visit didn't use to go don't go live lived don't live used to enjoy

When I was a child, I ¹used to go to my grandparents' house in the mountains. We ²lived in a city back then, and we visited them every year. We didn't ³have a car at that time, so we travelled by bus. It always took ages! We ⁴were in the winter because there was too much snow.

I loved helping my grandfather in his garden (although I usually avoid gardening now!). He never ⁵had a lawnmower, so we had to cut the grass by hand. It was hard, but I ⁶enjoyed it. I still ⁷live in the same city, but I ⁸don't go to the mountains any more. My grandparents ⁹lived there any longer. They ¹⁰were to live in a large town five years ago. Now, I ¹¹visit them in the summer, but it's not as nice as the mountains ¹²are.

b If possible, change the verbs in bold to the correct form of used to. If it is not possible, put X.

- 1 I drank a lot of cola, but now I don't. used to drink ...
2 I celebrated New Year with my family last year.
3 She had long hair when she was younger.
4 Where did you live when you were a child?
5 I went for a run every day last week.
6 We didn't wear the same clothes all the time.
7 In the past, people spent more time at work.
8 Did you play with your sister when you were kids?
9 I bought this bag in London – it's my favourite bag.
10 They weren't friends in those days.

4A Modals and phrases of ability

► 1.57 General ability

We use can / could to talk about general abilities:

I can ski, but I can't snowboard. I couldn't do maths at school.

We only use can in the present tense and could in the past tense, so when we need another form we use be able to.

We use be able to:

- in the present perfect, past perfect and after modal verbs.

How long have you been able to drive?

We hope we'll be able to come on Saturday.

Everyone should be able to swim.

- after other verbs (e.g. want, need, like) or prepositions (e.g. of, about).

The person who gets the job needs to be able to speak English.

I like being able to visit my parents regularly.

Don't worry about not being able to understand. You'll be fine!

Specific past achievements

Don't use could for specific past achievements:

When I went to France last year, I was able to visit the Louvre.

~~NOT I could visit...~~

I couldn't play the piano when I was a child but I can play very well now.

In negative sentences about specific past events, we use couldn't or wasn't able to:

I went to France last year, but I couldn't remember / I wasn't able to remember any words in French.

We can also use managed to for specific past achievements, especially to show that something was difficult:

It was hard work, but I managed to finish the project.

4B Articles

► 1.60

We use a / an, and the with singular countable nouns. We use the or no article with plural or uncountable nouns. The choice of article shows:

- if the topic is new.
I read a great book last week. (= we haven't discussed this book before)
- What was the book about?* (= the one we discussed earlier)
- if something is the only one.
Where are the car keys? (= the only car keys we have.)
- if we are talking about things in general or in particular.
Cats are clever animals. (= the animal)
The cats are in the garden. (= our pets)

Other uses of a / an

- when you describe something or say what job someone has:
That's a beautiful photo. / He's a doctor.
- in some frequency expressions:
I drink coffee once a week / three times a day.

Other uses of the

- when the noun is defined by a defining relative clause:
I've just met the man who lives next door. (= one specific man)
- before superlatives:
Kyoto is the most beautiful city in Japan.
- with certain countries, oceans, rivers, or groups of islands:
I went to the USA / the Pacific / the Amazon / the Bahamas.
- with some fixed expressions about:
time: all the time, most of the time, at the same time places or seasons: in the countryside / city, in the summer free-time activities: go to the cinema / the gym; listen to the radio (but watch TV)

Other uses of no article

- in phrases about meals:
I had breakfast / lunch / dinner at 7am.
~~NOT I had a/the breakfast ...~~
- in some fixed phrases about routines:
I usually go home / go to bed / go to work / go to school at ... o'clock.
- to talk about most countries, continents, cities, streets, etc.:
I went to China / Africa / Paris / Bond Street.

Tip

Be careful with expressions with next / last + week / month / year:

I went there last week. (= the calendar week before now)

I've been there twice in the last week. (= the seven days before now)

We went there in the last week of the holidays. (= a period of time with no connection to now)

4A Modals and phrases of ability

a Underline the correct option. If both options are possible, underline both of them.

- 1 I went to India last year but I cannot / could not take any pictures because my camera was broken.
- 2 He's been able to swim / He can swim since he was a child.
- 3 When they were children, they could / were able to run really fast.
- 4 She tried to read War and Peace, but she wasn't able to / didn't manage to finish it.
- 5 He managed to / could climb trees when he was a boy, but he can't / couldn't climb them now.
- 6 Katya needs to can / be able to speak Japanese in her new job.
- 7 You will can / be able to find a new person for the job soon, I'm sure.
- 8 I'm scared of not being able to / can't pass my exam tomorrow.
- 9 They couldn't / didn't manage to find a parking place.
- 10 I think everyone should manage to / be able to drive. It's an important skill.

b Complete each gap with a phrase from the box.

can swim could all swim couldn't swim couldn't walk didn't manage to was able to jump was able to stand needed to be able to be able to managed to climb

When I was a young child, I ¹ couldn't swim – I only learnt to swim when I was about 14. I guess I thought that I didn't need ² swim, because I never went to swimming pools. But one day I went for a walk on a hill near the sea with my friends – we were about 13 at the time. Part of the path was missing in one place – we ³ were along it, so we decided to try to jump across. My friend Andy was quite big, so he ⁴ jumped across it very easily. But then it was my turn – I was a lot smaller, so I ⁵ couldn't jump across. I fell down the hill and into the sea. My friends ⁶ laughed, so they thought it was really funny to see me in the water, but I was really scared. Luckily, I ⁷ were on a rock under the water and then I ⁸ climbed out of the water. After that, I knew I ⁹ had to swim, so I started going to swimming lessons every week. And now I ¹⁰ swim really well.

4B Articles

a Find the mistakes in these sentences.

- 1 Do you want to go to a cinema with me?
- 2 Can you give me an advice?
- 3 I want to buy new shirt.
- 4 We had a good fun at the beach.
- 5 I want to go to a countryside.
- 6 I hope we have good weather at weekend.
- 7 If you have problem, call me.
- 8 I was in a shock for a few days.
- 9 My brother is engineer.
- 10 Please visit us if you have a time.

Do you want to go to the cinema with me?

b Complete the text with a / an, the or Ø (no article).

I don't like working in ¹ Ø groups because I never know what to say when ² Ø people talk to me. ³ Ø last year I joined ⁴ a language course and ⁵ the teacher made ⁶ the students work in ⁷ Ø groups for ⁸ the most activities. ⁹ The lessons that we had were good, but I wasn't happy about ¹⁰ the speaking activities. I know speaking is probably ¹¹ the best way to learn to speak ¹² a language, but I don't really need to speak in my job. ¹³ The only thing I want is to be able to write ¹⁴ Ø good emails without making ¹⁵ Ø mistakes. One day, after ¹⁶ an extremely difficult lesson, I decided to speak to ¹⁷ the teacher about ¹⁸ the problem. I explained ¹⁹ Ø situation and she listened carefully. She explained ²⁰ the purpose of working in ²¹ Ø groups, and that she needs to find ²² the right balance for all of ²³ the students in ²⁴ the class. In ²⁵ Ø end, I agreed to try to speak more, and she agreed to give me ²⁶ Ø more time to work quietly.

5A Future forms

► 25 Decisions, plans and arrangements

We use will to make a spontaneous decision (= a decision while we are speaking):
OK, I'll come for a run with you.

We use going to to talk about future plans (= decisions we made earlier):
We're not going to stay at that hotel again.

We use the present continuous to talk about arrangements (= fixed plans, usually involving other people and specific times and places):
She's travelling to Central America on Sunday.

There is not a big difference in meaning between going to and the present continuous to talk about future plans / arrangements. Often both are possible:
I'm visiting / going to visit my sister this weekend.

► 26 Offers, promises and suggestions

We use will to make offers and promises:

I'll help you, if you like.

I'll always be here when you need me.

We use shall + I / we in questions to make offers and suggestions:

A Shall I carry that for you? B Oh, yes, please.

A Shall we go swimming on Saturday? B That's a good idea.

► 27 Predictions

We use will to make predictions based on our opinions:

I'm sure you'll learn a lot when you go travelling.

Don't put that there! It'll fall off.

We use going to to make predictions based on concrete facts (= things that we can see or information that we have read, etc.):

We should leave soon. The roads are going to be busy.

It's not going to rain. There isn't a cloud in the sky.

Tip In negative sentences, say I don't think + will.

I don't think the forest will recover. NOT I think the forest won't recover.

5B Zero and first conditional

Conditional sentences have two parts: the if-clause describes a possible event and the main clause describes the result of that event. The if-clause can come before or after the main clause. When the if-clause is first, put a comma between the two parts:
If the lizard gets scared, it hides.
The lizard hides if it gets scared.

► 29 Zero conditional

The zero conditional describes events and results that happen regularly or are always true. If and when both mean 'every time': every time the event happens, the same result happens. We use a present tense in both the if-clause and the main clause:

If the lizard gets scared, it hides.

If I go to the city centre, I always eat in that restaurant.

Anyone can succeed if they work hard.

Butter doesn't burn in the pan if you add a little oil to it.

► 30 First conditional

The first conditional describes possible future events and the expected results of those events. We use a present tense in the if-clause and a future form in the main clause:

If the scientists succeed, many people will live longer.

If I don't work hard, I won't be successful.

Will you have to commute if you get the job?

He'll cook you an amazing meal if you ask him to. He loves showing off!

Imperative conditionals

We can use imperatives in the main clause. The meaning can be present or future:

If you're tired (now), go to bed (now).

If you're tired when you arrive (this evening), go to bed (then).

Unless

Unless means 'if not'. We can use it in zero or first conditionals and with imperatives:

We play every Saturday unless it rains.

It won't hurt you unless you run away.

Tip

In general, don't use a future form (e.g. will, going to) in the if-clause (or after when or unless):

If the government changes the law, this area will become a national park. NOT If the government will change ...

We're going to miss the bus unless we leave right now. NOT ... unless we're going to leave ...

5A Future forms

a Underline the best option in each sentence.

- 1 A It's a bit hot in here.
B Yes ... I'll / I'm going to open a window.
- 2 I'm going to the shop. Will / Shall I get you anything?
- 3 A Why are you carrying those flowers?
B Because I'll / I'm going to ask Sara to marry me!
- 4 A I'm so tired.
B I'll / I shall make you a coffee, if you want.
- 5 I've got a bad stomach. I think I'll / I'm going to be ill ...

b Complete the sentences with will, shall or going to and the verbs in brackets.

- 2 a If a snail is in danger, it hides in its shell.
b When a snail is in danger, it hides in its shell.
- 3 a The animals won't come out if we don't stay quiet.
b The animals won't come out unless we stay quiet.
- 4 a If you need some money, I'll lend you some.
b When you need some money, I'll lend you some.
- 5 a If you see a bear in the forest, don't run!
b When you see a bear in the forest, don't run!
- 6 a Lizards don't bite unless they feel scared.
b Lizards don't bite if they feel scared.

b Underline the correct options.

- 1 If I eat / will eat too much, I feel sleepy.
- 2 Simon isn't very talkative when he wakes up / will wake up.
- 3 I send / I'll send you some photos if you give me your email address.
- 4 If we don't leave now, we don't / won't get to the airport on time.
- 5 If you go / will go to London, visit the British Museum.
- 6 I go to the cinema every Friday unless I'm not / I'm busy.
- 7 Karen will speak / won't speak to Paul unless he apologises.
- 8 If someone phones / is going to phone, don't tell them I'm here.
- 9 You can do anything if / unless you try hard enough.
- 10 Will I have to bring anything if I come / will come to the party?

c Complete the sentences with the verbs in brackets and a conditional form. Use will where possible.

- 1 You will feel (feel) bad if you drink (drink) too much coffee.
- 2 If you don't want (not want) to watch the film, we do (do) something else instead.
- 3 He won't make (not make) any money unless he starts (start) selling more products.
- 4 If you don't finish (not finish) tonight, you haven't (not have) the weekend free.
- 5 If you feel (feel) like going out later, call me.
- 6 Unless it is (be) really cold, we try (try) to run tomorrow morning.
- 7 You haven't (not get) there on time if you take (not take) the train.
- 8 If you aren't (not be) ready in five minutes, we leave (leave) without you.

d Now go back to p.60

6A Modals of obligation

► 2.25 must and have to

We use must when we make the rules:

I must get a good night's sleep tonight.

We use have to when we talk about other people's rules:

You have to buy a ticket before you get on the train.

There is no past or future form of must. When we talk about rules in the past or future, we always use the correct form of have to:

When you go to India, you'll have to get a visa.

I had to wear a uniform at school.

Don't use contractions with have to:

I have to go. NOT I've to go.

Tip

- Often there is not much difference in meaning between must or have to. Have to is much more common than must, especially in spoken English.
- have got to is also used in spoken English and means the same as have to.
- Questions with must are very rare.

► 2.26 mustn't, can't and don't have to

We use mustn't or can't to say that something is not allowed.

We often use mustn't when we make the rules and can't to talk about other people's rules:

I mustn't forget to email my mum.

We can't cross the road yet – the light's still red.

For things which were not allowed in the past, use couldn't:

I couldn't work in India because I only had a tourist visa.

We use don't have to when there is no obligation. It means it's not necessary to do something:

University students don't have to wear a uniform.

I didn't have to call a taxi. Robert drove me home.

► 2.27 should and ought to

We use should or ought to to give advice and recommendations.

They have the same meaning, but should is much more common:

We should see as much as possible. We shouldn't waste time.

We ought to see as much as possible. We ought not to waste time.

6B Comparatives and superlatives

	Adjectives	Adverbs
One syllable	rich → richer, the richest	fast → faster, the fastest
Two or more syllables	Ending in -y: easy → easier, the easiest friendly → friendlier, the friendliest	All: often → more often, the most often carefully → more carefully, the most carefully
	Other: careful → more careful, the most careful
Exceptions	good → better, the best bad → worse, the worst far → further, the furthest more / the most bored / tired / ill clever → cleverer / the cleverest*	well → better, the best badly → worse, the worst far → further, the furthest early → earlier, the earliest

*Some two-syllable adjectives can follow the rules for one-syllable adjectives: clever, narrow, shallow, quiet, simple.

► 2.32 Comparison

We can use comparative adjectives and adverbs to compare two things, situations, times, actions, etc. usually with than. We can change the degree of comparison with words like a lot, much, far, even, slightly, a bit, a little:

Life's a lot more interesting than before.

She's a bit happier than she used to be.

He's speaking much more slowly than usual today.

The opposite of more is less. We can use it with all adjectives and adverbs:

The car's slightly less clean than it was.

I drive less quickly than he does.

as + adjective/adverb + as shows that two things are equal; not as ... as means less than:

They're as wealthy as the royal family.

She doesn't listen as carefully as she should.

Some common adverbs can change the degree of the comparison:

You're just as pretty as your sister! (= exactly equal)

*My brother isn't nearly as hard-working as me.
(= very different)*

*She doesn't sleep quite as well as I do.
(= slightly different)*

Extremes

We use superlative adjectives and adverbs to talk about extremes:

It's the worst hotel in the world!

I got the lowest score possible.

We often use the present perfect with ever with superlatives:

This is the best meal I've ever eaten.

It was the least interesting film I've ever seen.

We can use the expression by far to say an extreme is very different from all others:

That's by far the highest mountain I've ever climbed.

6A Modals of obligation

a Complete the sentences with the correct form of must or have to.

- 1 In my country, you have to cross the road at a pedestrian crossing – it's illegal to cross anywhere else.
- 2 When I lived in Moscow, I had to leave home two hours before work, because the rush hour traffic was so bad.
- 3 Must Alex wear a tie to work?
- 4 I'll tell you a secret, but you mustn't tell anyone. I don't want anyone else to know.
- 5 We took plenty of money, but in the end, we had to pay – everything was free.
- 6 The sign says all visitors must report to reception.
- 7 If you want to be there on time, you'll have to leave here very soon.
- 8 Your brother can borrow my books tonight but he mustn't forget to bring them back tomorrow. I need them for my class.

b Look at the signs. Then complete the advice using the verbs in brackets and a modal verb. Sometimes more than one form is possible.

You ¹ mustn't / can't park (park) here.

You ² have to (pay) for the bus to the shopping centre.

You ³ must (leave) your car unlocked. It might get stolen.

You ⁴ must (use) that door – it's for emergencies only.

You ⁵ must (only use) the official taxis.

6B Comparatives and superlatives

a Complete the sentences with the comparative or superlative form of the words in brackets. Add than or the where necessary.

- 1 Indian food is spicier than French food. (spicy)
- 2 This is the most delicious meal I've ever eaten. (delicious)
- 3 The weather was hotter I expected. (hot)
- 4 She's a slow driver than me. (slow)
- 5 Are you the cleverest person in your class? (clever)
- 6 I didn't have a good holiday. The worst thing was the hotel. It was terrible. (bad)
- 7 Your English is better mine. (good)
- 8 I'm sorry, I can't come on Friday. That's my busiest day. (busy) b Complete the sentences so that they mean the same as the sentences in a. Use two to five words.

- 1 French food isn't as spicy as Indian food.
- 2 I've never eaten a worse meal than this.
- 3 I didn't expect the weather to be worse it was.
- 4 She drives worse I do.
- 5 Is anybody in your class better you?
- 6 I didn't have a good holiday. The hotel was worse everything else.
- 7 You speak English worse I do.
- 8 I'm sorry, I can't come on Friday. It's worse the other days.

c Complete the sentences with one word from the box in each space. Use each word once only.

as bit by ever expected in just more most nearly one slightly than the

- 1 Today's lesson was as lot more interesting than usual – it was excellent.
- 2 That's the worst joke I've ever heard!
- 3 The exam went really well. It wasn't as difficult as I expected.
- 4 I think she's one of the most innovative designers in the world.

- 6 They started slightly later than usual, but they still finished on time.
- 7 Far the oldest person in my family is my great-grandmother.
- 8 Our new TV is fantastic – the picture quality is as good as in the cinema, or maybe even better.

d Now go back to p.72

7A Modals of deduction

We can use modal verbs to show that we are making a deduction using evidence, not stating a fact:

We must be early. Nobody else has arrived yet.

They work at the same office so they may know each other.

She might not be in. The lights are all out.

That can't be Mark's car. He told me his was in the garage.

Different modal verbs tell us how sure about a deduction we are:

It's cold in that house.	Fact: I know it is.
It must be cold in that house.	Deduction: I'm sure it is.
It may / might / could be cold in that house.	Deduction: It's possible that it is.
It may / might not be cold in that house.	Deduction: It's possible that it isn't.
It can't be cold in that house.	Deduction: I'm sure it isn't.
It isn't cold in that house.	Fact: I know it isn't.

- The opposite of must for deductions is can't. Don't use mustn't, can or couldn't for deductions:

This bill can't be right. I only ordered a salad.

NOT This bill couldn't / mustn't be right.

There must be a mistake.

NOT There can be a mistake.

- There is no difference between may, might and could. All three mean that something is possible.

- To make deductions about actions happening now, use a modal + be + verb + -ing:

She isn't answering the phone. She might be listening to music.

7B Quantifiers

2.46 some, any and no

We usually use some in positive statements and any in negatives and questions:

There are some nice views from the hotel.

He doesn't have any good music.

We can also use no in positive sentences to talk about zero quantity:

There's no crime around here.

To talk about zero quantity, we can use none of + plural or none:

None of my friends could help.

A How many holidays have you been on this year?

B None at all.

2.47 Large quantities

We use lots of / a lot of in positive sentences, not many / not much / not a lot of in negative sentences and many / much / a lot of in questions:

There are quite a lot of cars on the roads today.

I haven't got much money with me.

Did many people come to the concert?

We don't need a lot of time to finish this work.

In positive sentences, we can use plenty of to show we are happy with the amount:

Don't worry – we've got plenty of food.

2.48 Small quantities

We use a few / a little to talk about an amount. We use few / little to talk about a negative amount (i.e. there is not a lot):

We have a little time before the show starts.

There are a few things I need from the shops.

I have very little time to finish this work.

This dish has very few ingredients.

We can say quite a few / very few / very little to increase / decrease the amount.

2.49 too / not enough

We use too much / too many + noun to say there is more than the right amount. We use not enough to say that there is less than the right amount:

I have too much furniture. There isn't enough room for all of it!
I couldn't move at the concert because there were too many people.

We also use too + adjective / adverb and not + adjective / adverb enough:

This suitcase is too heavy. They won't let you on the plane.

You're walking too quickly, I can't keep up!

The meeting room isn't big enough for all of us. There aren't enough chairs.

You're not walking fast enough. Hurry up!

7A Modals of deduction

a Match the deductions 1–8 with the best sentences a–h.

b We had no money.
- 8 a She's got plenty of time tomorrow.
b She's got a lot of time tomorrow.

c Now go back to p.85

8A Reported speech

Reported speech and direct speech

When we talk about what somebody said or thought, we can use direct speech or reported speech:

- Direct speech: He said, 'I don't want to talk to you.'
- Reported speech: He said he didn't want to talk to me.

► 3.3

Direct speech

- 'I don't want to talk to you.' → He said he didn't want to talk to me.
 'I'm planning to resign.' → She said she was planning to resign.
 'I've already told you.' → He said he had already told me.
 'I saw you break it.' → I told him I had seen him break it.
 'I'm going to cook tonight.' → You said you were going to cook tonight.
 'I'll see you soon.' → He said he would see me soon.
 'I can't hear you.' → She said she couldn't hear me.
 'You may be right.' → He said I might be right.

Some modal verbs (would, could, should, might) stay the same in reported speech:

I'd like to go. → He said he'd like to go.

It might be difficult → She said it might be difficult.

► 3.4 Reported questions

When you report a Wh-question, put the subject before the verb. Don't use the auxiliary do / does / did:

- 'Where are you from?' → She asked me where I was from.
 'Why did she say that?' → He asked me why you had said that.

For Yes/No questions, use if/whether. Whether is more formal than if:

'Are you going to help?' → We asked them if they were going to help.

'Did you visit the London Eye?' → She asked us whether we had visited the London Eye.

Other changes

When we report speech, we usually need to change the pronouns (e.g. I, he) and possessives (e.g. my), depending on who is talking to whom. Time and place words may also need to change:

'I want you to give this message to your boss tonight.'

→ She said she wanted me to give a / the message to my boss that night.

Tip

You don't need to change the tense when you want to show that the speaker's words are still true now:

I told you yesterday that I don't want to talk to you.

(= I still don't want to talk to you today.)

say and tell have different patterns. Always use a person or pronoun after tell:

Tom said he had a new car. NOT Tom said me he had a new car.

Tom told me he had a new car. NOT Tom told he had a new car.

8B Verb patterns

► 3.5 verb + -ing or to + infinitive

- Some verbs (e.g. enjoy, mind, keep, admit, recommend, suggest) are followed by a verb + -ing:
She didn't mind working late.
 The negative form is not + verb + -ing:
I enjoyed not cooking for a change.
- Other verbs (e.g. want, hope, agree, offer, promise, need, refuse, threaten, plan) are followed by to + infinitive:
They threatened to tell the police.
 The negative form is not + to + infinitive:
I promise not to break anything.
- Some verbs (e.g. start, begin, continue) can be followed by both patterns, with no change of meaning:
People started arriving an hour ago.
He started to feel angry.
- Some verbs (e.g. try, forget, remember) can be followed by both patterns, but the meaning changes:
I tried reading some reviews online, but they didn't help much.
 (= I read them as an experiment)
I tried to read some reviews online, but my internet connection wasn't working. (= I attempted to read them)
I remember going there for the first time. (= I'm looking back at an earlier experience.)
Please remember to book a table. (= keep the plan in your memory)

- Some verbs (e.g. advise, ask, invite, remind, tell, warn) need an object before to + infinitive:

They warned me not to tell anyone.

I've invited your parents to visit us.

make (= 'force') and let (= 'allow') are followed by an object and a bare infinitive:

My boss made me work late.

He let me drive his car.

Other uses of verb + -ing

- When a verb comes after a preposition (e.g. about, of, by), the verb is always in the -ing form:
I'm worried about not being good enough.
They escaped by breaking a window.
- When a verb is the subject of a sentence, it is usually in the -ing form:
Eating in a restaurant is more expensive than at home.

Other uses of to + infinitive

- Infinitive of purpose:
I went online to read the news.
- adjective + to + infinitive:
I was relieved to see I wasn't late.
- verb + question word + to + infinitive:
I don't know where to go or who to ask.

8A Reported speech

a Complete the reported speech with the correct verb form. Change the tense where possible.

- 1 It's going to be a lovely day.
- 2 I don't want to go out this evening.
- 3 We're waiting for you.
- 4 My sister can't drive.
- 5 I've lost my car keys.
- 6 Lucy might have a new job.

He said it was going to be a lovely day.
 She told me she that evening.
 They said they for us.
 She said her sister .
 She told me she her car keys.
 He said Lucy a new job.
 He said he with my bags.
 You told me that Mark a new car.

b Read Harry's conversation with Andy. Then choose the best word or phrase to complete Andy's conversation with Harry's sister, Lucy.

HARRY Hi. I'm trying to buy a present for my sister, Lucy. It's her birthday tomorrow.
ANDY What sort of books does she like?
HARRY I'm not sure. She reads a lot of history books.
ANDY This is really good, A Short History of the World. I read it a few months ago.
HARRY No, I think she's already read that. She didn't like it. No, I'm going to get her this one, A History of Amazing Buildings.

Two days later, Andy sees Lucy in the street ...

ANDY Hi Lucy. I met your brother a few days ago – he said it was ¹*my / your / her* birthday
²*tomorrow / the previous day / yesterday*.
LUCY Yes, that's right. Where did you meet him?
ANDY In the bookshop. When I asked him what he was doing ³*here / there / near*, he said
⁴*he was / he's / I'm* looking for a present for ⁵*me / you / her*.
LUCY Really?
ANDY Yes. I asked him what books ⁶*you liked / do you like / does she like*, and he said he wasn't sure. He said ⁷*she reads / you read / I read* history books. So I showed him A Short History of the World – I said it was really good. I told him ⁸*you've / I've / I'd* read it a few months ⁹*earlier / ago / later*. But he said ¹⁰*you'd / she's / I'd* already read it, and you hadn't liked it.
LUCY What? I thought it was brilliant!
ANDY Yeah. Anyway, he said ¹¹*I'm / he's / he was* going to get A History of Amazing Buildings.
LUCY Yes – and he did. It's really cool.
ANDY Great – I knew ¹²*you'd love it / she'll love that / you'll love that*.

9A The passive

We form the passive using be + past participle.

Active	Passive
They make a lot of films in Hollywood.	A lot of films are made in Hollywood.
The scriptwriters are writing a new script this week.	A new script is being written this week.
The estate agent sold the house for £1 million.	The house has been sold for £1 million.
There was an accident while they were building the bridge.	There was an accident while the bridge was being built .
A film studio will make a film from the book.	A film will be made from the book.
Somebody stole our car in the night.	Our car was stolen in the night.
An expert should do the work.	The work should be done by an expert.

We use passive verb forms:

- when the main thing we are talking about is the object of the verb.
A film will be made from the book.
- The work should be done* by an expert. (We are talking about the work, not the expert.)

- when the agent (the doer) isn't important.

The house has been sold for £1 million. (We don't care about the estate agent.)

- when the agent (the doer) is very obvious.

A new script is being written this week. (by scriptwriters)

- when we don't know who did something / what caused something.

Our car was stolen in the night.

Negatives and questions are made in the same way as other uses of be:

Films aren't made here. Is a film being made here?

We use by to introduce the person or thing that did the action (the agent):

This frame was drawn by one of the animators.

We usually use with to introduce a tool, instrument or technique that was used by the agent:

The pirate's beard was controlled with a wire.

We can say something was made by hand or by machine:

This jumper was made by hand in Scotland.

9B Defining and non-defining relative clauses

3.27 Defining and non-defining relative clauses

Defining relative clauses define a noun or make it more specific. They tell us which particular thing or what kind of thing. In defining relative clauses, we can also use that instead of who or which:

I love music that makes people dance.

I hate books which don't have happy endings.

My dad met the woman who reads the news on TV yesterday!

They're the couple that I told you about.

Non-defining relative clauses give extra information about a noun, but they are not necessary for the sentence to make sense:

The DJ was playing hip hop. (This sentence is complete.)

The DJ was playing hip hop, which is my favourite kind of music. (This relative clause adds more information.)

In writing, we need a comma before and after a non-defining relative clause.

Don't use commas in defining relative clauses:

We visited the market on a Sunday, when they sell clothes and jewellery.

I met Lucy, who was staying with relatives nearby, for a coffee.

In both types of relative clause, we can use who, which, whose, where and when:

Have you been to that restaurant where you cook your own food at the table?

Did you meet the girl whose father climbed Mt. Everest?

Omitting relative pronouns

We can often leave out who/which/that or when from defining relative clauses:

He likes the cheese (which/that) I bought.
(I bought the cheese. cheese = object.)

Don't leave out the relative pronoun if it's the subject of the relative clause (who, which or that):

He likes the cheese that comes from Turkey. (The cheese comes from Turkey. cheese = subject.)

Never leave out the relative pronoun from a non-defining relative clause:

This cheese, which Greg really likes, comes from Turkey.

NOT This cheese, Greg really likes, ...

I think we should buy the chair you are sitting in.

9A The passive

a Complete the passive sentences. Don't include any agents that are inside brackets.

10A Second conditional

We use the second conditional to talk about imagined events or states and their consequences. They can be about the unreal present or the unlikely future.

Real present	3.38 Unreal present and consequence
I don't know the answer.	→ If I knew the answer, I'd tell you.
Likely future	Unlikely / imagined future and consequence
She won't find out that you lied.	→ She would be angry if she found out you had lied.

We usually use the past simple in the if-clause and would in the main clause.

We can also use could or might instead of would:

You could afford to go on holiday if you were more careful with your money.

If you tried harder, you might win a medal.

The verb be has a special form in the second conditional. We can use were for all persons (if I were, if you were, if she were, etc.):

If I were taller, I'd be better at basketball.

We use the phrase If I were you to give advice:

If I were you, I wouldn't eat that fish. It doesn't smell fresh.

We don't always need to include the if-clause if the meaning is clear:

Look at that house! That would be a great place to live. (... if I moved there)

I'm sure Jack would help you. (... if you asked)

Tip

The contracted form of would ('d), is the same as the contracted form of had.

You can tell the difference by looking at the verb that comes next.

- 'd + past participle: He'd won (= had won) the match.
- 'd + infinitive: He'd win (= would win) the match.

Tip

When talking about the future, you can usually choose between the first and second conditional. Use the first conditional if you think a future event is likely, use the second conditional if you think it is unlikely.

- If we score one more point, we'll win.
(I think there's a good chance of this.)
- If we scored four more points, we'd win (but we probably won't.)

10B Third conditional

3.42

We use the third conditional to talk about imagined past events or states and their consequences:

If you'd told me about your birthday, I would have bought you a present.

We use the past perfect in the if-clause and would have + past participle in the main clause.

We can also use could have or might have instead of would have:

We could have saved some money if we'd known about the offer.
If I had done more work, I might have passed the exam.

Common uses of third conditionals

- 1 Regrets about things that happened or didn't happen in the past:
If I'd sold my house two years ago, I'd have made a fortune.
- 2 Relief about avoiding a past problem:
I might have missed the flight if you hadn't woken me up.
- 3 Surprise about how things were different from expected:
If you'd told me five years ago I'd have my own company one day, I wouldn't have believed you.

Tip

Be especially careful with the contraction 'd. In the if-clause, it's a contraction of had. In the main clause, it's a contraction of would.

If you'd told me about your birthday, I'd have bought you a present.

10A Second conditional

a Match the sentence beginnings 1–8 with the most logical endings a–h.

- | | |
|----------------------------------|----------------------------|

c Now go back to p.117

10B Third conditional

a What does 'd mean in each sentence? Write had or would.

- 1 If you'd (had) told me earlier, we'd (would) have saved a lot of time.
- 2 I don't know what I'd (_____) have done if you hadn't helped me.
- 3 We might have got seriously hurt if you'd (_____) crashed.
- 4 She'd (_____) have got the job if she'd (_____) applied for it.
- 5 I'd (_____) have loved to go to the party, but I wasn't invited.

b Write third conditional sentences about the situations.

- 1 Real past: I didn't win the competition because I made a stupid mistake.
Unreal past: If I hadn't made a stupid mistake, I would have won the competition.
- 2 Real past: He went to live in Japan. While he was there, he met his wife.
Unreal past: If he _____
- 3 Real past: The car was broken so we couldn't go to the concert.
Unreal past: We _____
- 4 Real past: I didn't go to see the film because I didn't know it was so good.
Unreal past: I _____
- 5 Real past: You didn't take my advice so you got lost.
Unreal past: If _____
- 6 Real past: You helped me so much. That's why I was so successful.
Unreal past: I'd never _____ b Correct the mistakes.

- 1 If you'd been there too, you would enjoy yourself.
would have enjoyed
- 2 We couldn't have bought the house if they wouldn't have lent us the money.
- 3 If they hadn't noticed the fire, the whole house could burned down.
- 4 If I know it was dangerous, I'd never have gone there.
- 5 What you would have done if I hadn't helped you?
- 6 He could have been an opera singer if he'd have some training.

Audioscripts

Unit 1

Four generations – and they all prefer communicating in different ways. There are sure to be misunderstandings and other problems, right? Well, there don't have to be.

OK, so I'm a Millennial – I was born in 1990 – and so being able to connect with people is really important to me. I'm constantly trying to learn, grow and change. And, for me, fast on-screen communication is the best way to do this. I love the way that the internet puts you in touch with all kinds of people you wouldn't meet in everyday life.

Generation X, on the other hand, uses communication to build relationships and develop ideas. This sounds pretty good, but they express their feelings and opinions directly, and aren't afraid to say or write how they feel. My boss is Generation X, and she definitely has an opinion on everything!

And, of course, at home I spend time with Baby Boomers and Veterans. My dad is a typical Baby Boomer. They have a lot in common with Generation X – they can be quite direct about what they think. I don't always agree with his opinions, but I do appreciate his honesty – usually! And Baby Boomers definitely prefer face-to-face communication. My dad's really not very good with emails, social networking or anything like that.

My grandparents are in the generation called Veterans. For them, communication is something that keeps people together and traditions alive. Both Veterans and Baby Boomers take time to talk things over that matter to their job or family, but are not that interested in chatting about personal goals and development.

Understanding these different communication styles is really important for improving our relationships, both at work and at home.

So, for example, one really big difference between us Millennials and the other three generations is that we expect people to tell us – gently – how we're doing. So, I used to get a bit annoyed with my boss for not giving me enough feedback about how things are going at work. But then I realised that other generations don't necessarily notice this difference, so I learnt not to be upset if older people didn't praise me all the time, and I also learnt to ask for help if I needed it.

Similarly, some of us Millennials find it difficult when people criticise us or disagree with us. Generation X and Baby Boomers will tell you clearly if they don't like something. Don't take it personally – although that's often easier said than done!

On a practical level, it can help to use different communication styles with different generations. Pick up the phone, write emails, and make time for face-to-face conversation. When you do, pay attention to your writing style. You might think an informal style is friendly, but to an older person it can seem rude.

Finally, understand that communication differences across generations do exist. So talk about them – with people of all ages. This can open the door to other conversations. You can learn a lot by hearing older people's experiences, and in turn you might be able to teach them about life in the modern world.

1A Are you OK, James?

B No, I'm not. I'm absolutely exhausted! I've been speaking Spanish all day!

2C Hi, Linda. Are you learning Russian?

D I'm trying to, but this book's useless! It teaches you how to say 'my uncle's black trousers', but not how to say 'hello'!

3E Hey, guess what? I've just read about this girl, and she's only 10 but she's fluent in several different languages.

F That's fantastic. I can only speak one language – English.

4G Listen, Olivier: squirrel.

H Squi... Squill ... It's impossible! I'll never get it right!

RACHEL Really? Oh, no ... the bookshop?!

What? Are you sure? Oh, thanks for letting me know. Yes, see you soon, Jo. Bye.

BECKY Excuse me?

R Oh, sorry! I thought you were just looking.

B Um, I want something for a friend's wife. I'm going there for dinner.

R OK. What sort of flowers does she like?

B Oh, I don't know. I haven't met her yet.

R Right, well, in my opinion, roses are always a good option.

B Um, aren't they a bit romantic?

R Yes, I know what you mean. I guess something like tulips might be better.

B Yes, they're lovely. How much are they? ... How much are the tulips?

R Oh, they're ... sorry.

B It's OK. I'll try somewhere else. Thank you.

R Hello? Yes. Yes, it is.

1.15 PART 2

MARK Rachel? You OK?

RACHEL Oh, I'm sorry, love. I'm just a bit worried. Jo phoned today and said that the old bookshop is going to be turned into another florist's.

M The bookshop on the corner? I didn't know they'd sold it.

R Me neither. What am I going to do? It's hard enough already to make money, but I think it's going to be impossible with another florist's in the same street.

M Yeah. Was Jo sure about this?

R I don't know. She seemed pretty certain.

M Well, if you ask me, it's not worth worrying about until we know for sure.

R I know, but I can't help it – it's on my mind. I was even rude to a customer today.

M Really? That's not like you. What happened?

R Well I wasn't exactly rude, just not very helpful.

M Hey, don't worry about it. Let's just forget about work. Personally, I need a relaxing evening!

R Me too!

M Anyway, Tom and Becky will be here in a minute. I think we should check on the food.

R Yes. I don't want anything else to go wrong today. So, what's Becky like?

M That'll be them now!

1.16 PART 3

MARK Hi! Come in! Hello. Come on in. Rachel, this is Tom and Becky.

TOM Hi, Rachel. Good to meet you.

RACHEL Hi, Tom.

BECKY Hi, Rachel. I think we've met before!

R I'm so sorry about earlier! I had something on my mind.

B Don't worry. Um, I was going to bring you some flowers, but I couldn't get any!

R Thank you.

▶ 1.22

MARIA How's your revision going?

GILBERTO Not so good. I think I can remember most of the grammar, but remembering vocabulary's a bit harder, for me anyway.

M Yes, there are a lot of words to remember.

G What about you?

M For me, it is probably the opposite – I find the grammar hard to get my head around, but the vocabulary is a lot easier. I've been testing myself at home and it's OK.

G How do you manage to remember all the words, though? What's your secret?

M Well, it's no secret! I have this kind of system for learning words that seems to make it easy ...

G OK, what?

M Well, when I get home from class, I record all the new words I've learnt onto my phone. And then I might do something like go for a run, and I listen to them when I'm running. And I make up these sentences with the words and say them to myself.

G As you're running?

M Yes, as I'm running – I just say the sentences quietly to myself.

G Do you remember what the words mean?

M Most of the time. If I forget, I check in my notebook when I get home from my run. And sometimes I play the words and write them down. I think the most important thing is to keep repeating them. I don't know why, but remembering the sounds of the words is important for me. Like, last week I learnt the word 'shine' – you know, like 'the sun is shining'. And that 'sh' sound at the beginning of the word makes me think of light that's getting brighter and brighter.

G Interesting. But I don't know if it would work for me. I need to see things written down. I need to look at the word.

M Right – my sister's like that too. She uses vocabulary cards. Have you tried that?

G No. How does that work?

M She has these small cards and writes all the new words on a card with a picture, or a definition and an example – sometimes a translation too. It worked really well ... for a while.

G For a while? Why? What happened?

M She left all the cards on a train.

G Oh, yes. That's probably what I would do!

M I felt so sorry for her – after all that work.

G It sounds like a good idea, but it sounds like you have to be quite organised to have a card system.

M Yes, that's true.

G And, to be honest, I think I'm maybe too lazy to write all those cards and keep them with me wherever I go!

Unit 2

▶ 1.23

You've got good grades and you've been to lots of interviews, but no one's offered you a job yet. Why? Is it because your knowledge and practical skills aren't right for the job?

Well, according to one careers expert, Nancy Maynard, it's probably because you just haven't got the 'likeability factor'. Likeability is the ability to work well with people. It isn't something you can learn easily at school, but employers want it and they're quick to see it in candidates at interview.

Without likeability, Maynard believes, good grades and practical skills are worth very little. In the first 18 months in a job, most of an employee's success is linked to their likeability, not to how well he or she does the job. Likeability is much more important than other abilities, and anyone who's looking for a job should be trying their hardest to improve their own by spending time with other people. Advice for job hunters goes like this: apply for the jobs that you want, even if you haven't got the right qualifications. If you get an interview, then impress the interviewers with your 'soft skills'. Soft skills are your personal skills – your friendly personality, your positive attitude to work, your ability to communicate with people and your problem-solving skills. It's simple.

Or is it? Is likeability really more important than knowledge and experience? We took to the streets and asked some people for their opinions.

▶ 1.30

1 People don't realise how important likeability is because employers don't like to talk about it, so they usually give other reasons for not offering someone a job. But let's be honest, if you're paying someone to do a job, you want them to work well with the people around them.

2 Yes, soft skills and likeability are much more important than specific job skills – like being able to use a computer – for the employer and for yourself too. There's no such thing as 'a job for life' any more. Develop your soft skills – be good at working with other people – and you'll always be able to get work.

3 I've been a doctor since I graduated from medical school. I've worked at this hospital for 18 years. My practical skills and my knowledge are all that matters. Without those, I couldn't do my job. I listen to my patients, but I certainly don't believe that I need to be charming and sociable all the time. I've never believed that.

4 I'm afraid it's true and it makes me angry. I'm 23 and I haven't worked since I left college. The only way to develop soft skills is to work with people, but the only way to get work is to have soft skills. It's a no-win situation.

5 When people talk like this, it makes education and hard work sound second best, and that's simply not true. Yes, you need to be able to make a good first impression, but come on, what really matters is that you can offer practical skills and experience to an organisation, not just a friendly face.

▶ 1.33 PART 1

RACHEL Oh, hi Becky!

BECKY Oh, hi Rachel.

R Oh no!

R Oh! Oh Becky, I'm so sorry.

B But why? It was me that knocked it over.

R But I distracted you.

B What, by saying hello? Don't worry about it! It was my fault.

R At least let me get you another orange juice!

134 PART 2

RACHEL How's the phone?

BECKY Not good. The screen's frozen.
R Oh dear! Have you tried turning it off and on again?

B I was just doing that, but still nothing.
R What about taking the SIM card out and drying it?

B That's worth a try. Thank you. Oh, I hope I haven't lost all my contacts. I haven't saved them anywhere else.

R Oh no, how awful. Could you take it back to the shop?

B Oh, I don't think they'll do anything. I bought it over a year ago.

R Can you claim on your insurance?

B I don't have any. It's just run out. A week ago!

R How annoying! I know, the other day I read about this trick for fixing phones that have got wet.

B Oh yes?

R They said you put the phone in a bag of rice and apparently it dries it out. You could try that.

B That sounds a bit weird.

R I know, but there were lots of comments from people saying that it had worked.

B OK, I'll give it a try. What have I got to lose?

R Exactly, it's cheaper than buying a new phone!

135 PART 3

RACHEL Hello. Fantastic Flowers.

BECKY Hi Rachel, it's Becky.

R Oh, hi Becky. How are you?

B I'm good and guess what? My phone's working. That rice trick worked.

R That's brilliant! I'm really glad to hear that.

139

LIN Have you done that presentation yet?

TANIA Yeah, I did it yesterday.

L How did it go?

T Well, you know, the usual thing: I presented my ideas, everyone smiled and thanked me and then said nothing.

L So they didn't even give their opinion?

T No, but I could see they didn't like the idea. The problem with the company I work for is that they're continuing to use the same ideas and aren't thinking enough about new markets. They're not thinking enough about the phone app market at all.

L Isn't that why they employed you?

T That's what I thought. I mean, I've been working there for just over a year now and they haven't said yes to any of my ideas. When they offered me the job, they said things like, 'Oh yes, we're very interested in your creative thinking and your problem-solving skills', but do they really want to use them? I get the feeling they don't.

L That must be very disappointing.

T I think I've more or less decided. I'm going to look for a new job.

L Really?

T Yeah, it's getting hard to keep having a positive attitude.

L I can understand that. And I thought your app idea was a really good one.

T Thanks. So what do you think about Hong Kong?

L Hong Kong? Why there?

T Well, I'm thinking about making a big change.

L What? Going to live in Hong Kong?

T Yeah, well, you decided to come and live here – maybe I can do the opposite.

L Wow! That's a very big change.

T I want to travel more and I'm really interested in Chinese culture – I'd love to find out more about it.

L Well, yes, everyone says there are plenty of IT jobs in Hong Kong, but it's a bit of a crazy city.

T Well, it could be fun!

Unit 3

145

CHARLOTTE When people find out I'm a twin, they generally ask the same questions: What's it like? Can you read each other's thoughts? Can people tell you apart? Do you do everything together?

It's true that I often know what Megan is thinking or feeling, but that's because we grew up together and we're very close. We're no different from ordinary sisters.

But if you look at photos of us when we were younger, even I can't say which one is me. We used to look absolutely identical. And Mum says we didn't use to talk much when we were playing together – we seemed to know what each other was thinking.

I guess as we grew up we wanted to create our own unique identities. I remember at school Megan used to dress as differently from me as she could. I went through a phase of wearing lots of black and looking quite messy. So of course, Megan started wearing flowery dresses!

We used to have a lot of arguments as teenagers but now we're really good friends. We usually speak on the phone two or three times a day, and we get together as often as we can. So, what's it like to have a twin? It's great – you have a best friend for life!

MEGAN Charlotte and I had a wonderful childhood. We did everything together. I had my best friend with me 24/7 and we used to be very close. She had a brilliant imagination and used to invent wonderful stories. Of course, we played the usual twin jokes. At school, we used to swap clothes and confuse the teachers. I'm not sure they even noticed some of the time – we looked so similar that even our parents used to mix us up.

We didn't use to argue much, but in our teenage years we started to grow apart. We were trying to find our own identity, I think, and we each made a different group of friends. Later on, we went to universities in different towns. But it turned out that you can never escape being a twin. After our first year away, we hadn't seen each other for six months. The day we went home, we saw that we'd both cut all our hair off!

These days, I think we have quite different personalities. Charlotte is very kind and caring, but often forgets things and gets lost. I'm a bit more confident and organised. But we still have lots in common – we both love beach holidays, playing football and we both complain about our hair!

149 PART 1

PAULA Hi, Mark. Hi, Tom.

MARK Hi, Paula.

TOM Hi!

M We're still meeting at 10, right?

P Yes, we are. We're in meeting room 3, I think. See you in there?

T Yep!

M See you in a minute.

T Coffee?

M Yes, please.

T So, did you have a good weekend?

M It was good, thanks. But you won't believe what I did.

T What?

M Remember I told you my dad wanted a desk for his new office? And I offered to help him find one online?

T Oh yeah?

M Well, I found one. It looked perfect, exactly what I was looking for. It was a fantastic price too.

T Sounds good.

M Exactly, so I ordered it.

T Great!

M And it arrived on Saturday. But, the funny thing is, it was really, really small.

T How small?

M It only came up to my knees!

T Eh?

M It turned out I'd ordered a desk for a child.

T No way!

M Mm-mm! I forgot to check the measurements on the website!

T So, what did you do?

► 1.50 PART 2

TOM So, what did you do?

MARK Well, I phoned the company to explain, and luckily they agreed to give me a refund.

T Really? That was very good of them.

M Yeah, it was. But anyway, I still had to find a desk. I was looking everywhere, but I couldn't find anything. In the end, Rachel suggested I try one of those freecycling websites.

T Freecycling? What's that?

M It's where people get rid of stuff they don't want any more. I've never heard of it either. But there are a couple of websites for this area. I found the perfect desk straight away – and the best thing is, it's free.

T It's free?

M Yeah, I think the owner doesn't have enough space for it, so he's just giving it away. So all I have to do is go and pick it up.

T Wow! That's good. And you're sure it's the right size this time?

M Ha-ha. Yeah, I double-checked the measurements this time.

P Guys!

M Oh, sorry, Paula! It's my fault. I was just explaining to Tom about my desk mix-up.

BRYAN It's a shame we don't know much about our grandfather, isn't it? Mom used to love talking about him and Grandma. She always used to tell so many interesting stories about them. But I've got no idea where or when they met.

SUSIE Yeah. Well, I know he was born in England.

B Who, Grandad? Yes, I know. And he wanted to go out and see the world, didn't he? That's why he went to train as a chef – so he could get work on a ship.

S What kind of ship?

B Cruise ships. And that was before the war. Some time in the 1930s.

B He loved travelling and that was the best way to see the world if you didn't have a lot of money back then.

S So, how did he meet Gran? She was a nurse, wasn't she? And how did they both end up in Canada?

B I ... I don't know. I guess we'll have to do some research!

PRESENTER That was Rimsky-Korsakov's Flight of the Bumblebee, a piece which was recently performed to a live audience on TV by a six-year-old boy called Tsung Tsung. Tsung Tsung could play the piano when he was three. At the age of five, an internet clip with him at the piano made him famous. Now, he says, he wants to be able to play like Mozart. Our question today is: Do we have to start young to succeed? We've all heard about kids like Tsung Tsung, bright kids who have a particular ability in, say, music, maths or science. But do they grow up to be successful adults? And if you're over 30 and you haven't achieved your goals yet, is it too late? Ed Bickley's been looking into it for us. Ed, what have you found out?

ED OK, well, clearly some talented children go on to do very well as adults. Take Lionel Messi. He started playing football on the street at the age of five. Soon, he was playing against much older boys – and they couldn't get the ball off him. He was so good that he was able to join the Barcelona junior team when he was 11, and achieved international success at 20. Now he's one of the greatest players in the world!

P A real success story!

E Yes. But what's surprising is that most of these talented children when they grow up don't actually achieve much more than other adults. A recent study followed a group of talented children from 1974 until now. Less than 5% managed to become very successful adults.

P That does seem surprising.

E And now for the good news! If you haven't achieved your goals by the time you're 30, don't give up! Plenty of people have found success much later in life. British fashion designer Vivienne Westwood's first job was in teaching. She always wanted to be a designer, but her successful fashion career didn't begin until she was 30 when she started making clothes for a shop in London called Let it Rock. Then there's Andrea Bocelli. He's been able to sing well since he was a child, but he didn't become a famous classical singer until he was

36. At 41, his album became the most successful classical album by a solo artist of all time, with 5 million copies sold around the world.

P So to do well at something, we don't have to be good at it at a young age?

E That's right. In most cases, talent develops with experience. You need to practise, make mistakes, get frustrated, learn from your mistakes, practise more ... it's hard work. You need a lot of patience, a lot of determination. Confidence and a positive attitude help, too. Say to yourself, 'I can do it!' And just maybe you will! And don't worry if your 10-year-old child can't play the piano. Maybe they'll be able to do it when they're a bit older.

P Ed, you've given us all hope! Thank you very much.

► 1.55 PART 1

BECKY And these are the photos. You haven't seen the ones of our holiday, have you?

RACHEL No, I haven't. Oh, wow! That's a great photo. That's the hotel you stayed in, isn't it?

B Yes. And there's the beach. It was only a few metres from the hotel.

R Wow, Becky, these are really good.

B Thanks. I enjoyed taking them.

R They're amazing. Actually, can I ask a big favour? You know I'm making a new website, don't you? Well, I need some photos of the shop for it. Do you think you could take them?

B Hmm, I'm not sure. I'm not a real photographer. It's just a hobby.

R But I really love your pictures. Will you do it?

B Well, if you're sure. I'd love to.

R Great!

B So, Mark, Tom told me about your internet shopping mistake. You bought a child's desk instead of an adult one, didn't you?

MARK It was an easy mistake to make – could have happened to anyone! Anyway, it all turned out well in the end. Actually, I'm going to get the desk on Saturday.

B Oh, do you need a hand? I'm sure Tom will help.

TOM Oh yeah? You'll need a bit of muscle!

R It would be great if you could, wouldn't it, Mark?

M Yeah, I was wondering how I was going to move it on my own.

T Why not? But could I ask you a favour in return, Rachel?

R Yes, of course. What?

T I'll tell you later.

1.65 PART 2

RACHEL So, what do you need?
TOM Well, I'm going to ask Becky to marry me.
R Wow, that is great news!
T Thanks, but I wondered if you could come with me to buy the ring. I've never done this before and I don't know where to start.
R Yes of course I could. Oh, that is brilliant.
B What are you two gossiping about?
T Oh, nothing!

1.66 PART 3

MARK Go on. Pull it a bit harder.
TOM I can't, it's too heavy!
M We're almost there. Go on.
T No, it's not going to work.
M All right. Put it down.
T What's it made of?
M Metal.
T Let's do it together, both sides. Ready?
M All right. One, two, three ... No, put it down, put it down.
T Let's move it across.
M All right. Ready? One, two, three...
T Job done.

SHEENA Last year, I had some free time and a bit of money to spend. I'd always wanted to go walking and climbing in the Himalayas, but I didn't want to go on my own and none of my friends wanted to go. So I found a website called Travel Groups, where you can contact other people who want to go to the same places as you, and you can join up and go together as a group. Anyway, I found three other people to go with and we all met in Delhi in north India and we travelled together. It worked out really well. I think websites like this are a good idea because lots of people don't want to travel on their own, and it works as long as everyone's reasonably sociable. I'm quite self-confident and I think I'm an extrovert, so I think I'm quite good at getting on with people and making friends.

ALYA I had a few months off after university, so I looked on the internet for volunteer work and found a really good website for last-minute volunteer jobs called the Volunteer Community Project. It was good because you can arrange things straight away and they pay your fares, and you get basic accommodation and food. You don't earn money, but you don't really spend much either. I went to London and worked there with young children from problem families. I didn't have any experience, but that doesn't matter. You just need to be able to get on with kids and understand what they need. I never realised before, but actually, it seems like I've got a natural talent for teaching children. So it was a really great experience and now I've decided to train as a primary school teacher.

BRAD I really needed to earn some money and I couldn't get a proper job. Someone told me about this website called Short Work, where people offer short jobs for a few days or a couple of weeks that they need doing, like helping out with things or fixing things for people. I'm quite good at things like that, and I know a bit about electricity and plumbing. I found this advert for a family who've got a large house and needed someone to do some basic work on it. So I went along and chatted to them, and they gave me the job. I think they could see that I was quite serious about it and I was determined to work hard. It was really good – I was only there for two weeks, but in that time I managed to clear their garden, mend their garden fence, I painted three rooms for them, and I got their kitchen light working. So not bad for two weeks' work!

PHIL Are they environmentally friendly in Costa Rica? Do they protect their rainforests and animals?

MASHA Well, yes they do. The government is doing a lot, but it takes quite a long time for forests to recover if they've already been cut down. They'll probably grow back, but not immediately.

P Are you going to work in the rainforests?

M No, no I'm not. I'll be by the sea. I'm going to work on a project that looks after turtles.

P Turtles? That's very cool. But how do you look after turtles, I mean, what do you do?

M Well, to be honest – I don't really know! Tomorrow I'm meeting someone who worked on the project, and she's going to tell me about the kinds of things I'm going to do.

P So, who else works on the project? Just people from overseas or local people too?

M I'm not sure about that either. Perhaps I'll work with local people as well.

P So, you're off to save the world. I think that's great.

M Don't know about saving the world. But I'll definitely be able to save some turtles! And I'm going to make the most of my time in Costa Rica and learn some Spanish too.

P Let me know how things go.

M Sure. Actually, I'm going to keep a blog, so I'll write regular updates on the blog and you can follow that.

P Good idea. I'm sure you'll have a great time.

M Yeah, so am I.

2.8

PRESENTER I visited biologist Andrew Parker to find out more about how the natural world has inspired everyday objects. Andrew, hello! What's this little animal you've got here?

ANDREW It's a thorny dragon lizard from the Australian desert. As you can see, it's quite small, about 20cm long. But it's an amazing animal. You see, what I'm really interested in is what this little creature can teach us about collecting water.

P OK.

A So, as I said, this lizard lives in the desert in Australia. And, as you know, it's an incredibly dry place. But this lizard manages to live there very successfully. And we've discovered one of the reasons for this. If the lizard puts a foot somewhere wet – even just a tiny, tiny bit wet – its skin pulls the water up and over its whole body. When the water reaches the lizard's mouth, it drinks it.

P That's very clever!

A Yes. On the lizard's skin, well, in fact, in the skin, we discovered there's like a system of very, very small pipes. So the skin collects the water and these pipes pull it towards the lizard's mouth.

P That sounds really efficient.

A Well, right, yeah. So, you see, we want to copy that system and use it in a device that collects water. If we are successful, the device will provide water for people who live in very dry environments.

P That's fantastic. And what other ideas have we taken from nature?

A Engineers are doing a lot with robots these days. For example, there's the rescue robot. It's just like a spider because it moves on eight legs. And so it can move very quickly and make itself very small. So these rescue robots will be able to help people who are stuck in small spaces, or who are trapped in buildings, for example, if there's an earthquake.

- P So they'll be able to help save lives.
A Exactly. And then we're looking at seashells, which are very strong, but, at the same time, they're very light – they don't weigh much at all. Scientists have discovered that seashells are made of lots of tiny blocks that fit together, but this makes them really hard to break. The plan is to copy this material to make safety equipment such as gloves and helmets.
P So this material will protect people like a shell protects a turtle.
A That's right. And again, this could help save lives.

BECKY Hi!

- RACHEL Oh hi, Becky.
B How are you?
R I'm fine, thanks.
B So, are you ready for your photo shoot?
R Ha! I guess so.
B The shop looks great!
R Oh, that's because of Tina. She spent the morning cleaning up!
B Well, she did a great job. So Tina, are you going to be in the photos too?

TINA No! I hate having my photo taken!

- B I see! Anyway, if you're ready.
R Make sure you get my good side!
B You look great!
R Thank you! So, how do you want to do this?

B Let me see. I think it would be best if I just take some natural shots of you looking busy with the flowers.

- R OK.
B Hmm! That's really good!
R Oh, shall I carry on?
B Yes, that's great. So, why did you become a florist?
R That's a good question. I've always loved flowers, ever since I was a little girl, so it seemed a natural thing for me to do. I think it's really important that you do something that you enjoy.
B Fantastic! Yeah, it must be nice to have a job like yours, the freedom you have, and you can be creative, and you're your own boss.
R You sound like you don't enjoy your job.
B No, not at the moment. Not for a while, actually.
R Really? What's wrong with it?

B Oh, lots of things. For instance, all I seem to do is deal with other people's problems, like issues with their pay or holidays. And I hate being stuck inside an office all day, staring at the clock.

- R Oh dear!
B I wish I had a job where I could travel the world, spread my wings, be free!
R Such as?
B I don't know, that's the problem. ... Lovely!
R Can I see?
B Sure. Here you go.
R Hmm! That's great.
B Thank you.
R Well, how about becoming a professional photographer? You're really good!
B I don't know. Tina, how about a quick shot of you and Rachel together?
T Do I have to?
B Oh, go on! Just stand by Rachel for a moment.

▶ 2.15 PART 2

RACHEL So, look at this. There are loads of photography courses you can do. Photojournalism, for example, or portrait photography.

- BECKY Thanks, that's great, but we're meant to be choosing which photos you want for your website.
R OK, but I just think it's something that you should consider.
B Well, maybe. Let's look at the photos for now.
MARK Hey, Becky. These are great!
B Thank you!
R I think this is the best one.
B Rachel, we can't see you in that one!
R OK, let me see. ... I think this one.

▶ 2.21

LIZ I'm on my way to Lane Cove where between 20 and 30 whales have come ashore and can't get back out to sea again. When I get to Lane Cove, I'm meeting Sam Collins from the Marine Life Service. I'm going to help Sam and a team of local people to try and save these whales.

OK, I've just arrived and talked to Sam. It's quite cold, so I think I'll change into my wetsuit before going down on to the beach to work with other people who've come here to help these whales. So far about 50 people have turned up and more are coming. If more people come, we'll have a chance of succeeding.

So, I'm in a team of four people and we're looking after just one poor whale. Sam says it's female, and what we've done is we've covered her with wet towels and we're pouring buckets of water over her to keep her cool. We have to be careful where we put the towels. If we cover her blowhole, she won't be able to breathe. Sam says our whale's in good condition and he thinks she'll survive. The tide's coming in soon. I'm going to help dig up sand around the whale to make a hole. When the water comes in, it'll fill up the hole. Better get going ...

Yes! Success! The tide came in and our whale floated again. There were about five of us. We pushed and pushed and she fought back a bit, then she took off. What a great feeling! She's swimming back out to sea. I think she's going to be OK.

HARRY Hi, Mel!

MEL Ah, There you are! Hi.

GEMMA We were just talking about that programme last night – that Toughest Place to Be... Did you see it?

- M No, why?
H It was about this London taxi driver ...
G Mason something.
H ... and he went to Mumbai. It looks like a nightmare – really, really busy roads, and people and cars all over the place! And people – even little kids – walking through the traffic.

M So, what? Did the guy have to be a taxi driver in Mumbai? I've seen some of that series. It's such a culture shock for the people when they discover how different their job is somewhere else.

G Yeah. This one was good. Mason was a very likeable guy, you know, and he got on really well with Pradeep, the guy who showed him around. You really wanted him to do OK, and he did in the end. He didn't find it easy, though. He'd spent about three years in London learning all the street names and where everything was. And then he only had a week in Mumbai to learn the job. And apart from anything else, it was so hot.

- M Yeah, I can imagine.
H He drove two different cars and neither of them were 'cool cabs' – that's what they call the taxis there with air conditioning – and the temperature was over 40°, so he was finding it really difficult. And in the old car he had to use hand signals instead of lights to indicate left and right.
M Bit different from London! And did he manage on his own OK?

H Yes, it was amazing, actually. He learned how to get around the city pretty quickly, and he did all right when he went out on his own. He picked up a few phrases of the local language and of course a lot of people in India speak English.

M Mm-hmm.

H But there's a lot of competition, so he had to work really hard to get passengers.

M I guess that's true for all taxi drivers in Mumbai.

G Well, yeah. It was clear that taxi drivers in Mumbai have to work very hard and don't earn much money. Pradeep works 15 hours a day to support his family and his brother's family, and only earns about £10 a day. When Mason went back to London, he collected money to send to Pradeep and his family.

M Wow, that's really good of him.

H Yeah, so, anyway, I guess we should check out the menu ...

▶ 2.30

PRESENTER Japan has by far the highest number of vending machines per person in the world. In fact it has 5.6 million – that's one vending machine for every 20 people. These machines sell all sorts of things, from coffee to bananas, flowers and umbrellas. In a busy society, they play an important role. It's much cheaper for sellers to run a vending machine than a shop. And customers can buy things more quickly and easily from a machine than in a shop.

And we're not talking here just about drinks and cold snacks. Japan also has vending machines that serve hot food, like instant noodles. Japanese students love curry and rice, it's one of the most popular meals there, and, sure enough, you can get it from a machine. The meal comes out of the machine hot and ready to eat. It's more convenient than cooking at home. But is curry and rice from a machine as good as curry and rice from a restaurant? Our reporter Luke went to central Tokyo to find out.

LUKE OK, I've just put my 300 yen into the vending machine and I'm waiting for my curry and rice to appear. Hmm, it's taking a bit longer than I imagined. OK, so my meal is here. I just have to open the packet of steamed rice. Hmm ... the curry smells, well, it smells OK, like a lot of instant curries. Right, let me go and find somewhere to sit down and try it. OK, this will do. Well, this is fine. It's actually much better than I expected. What can I say? I think it might be the best vending machine meal I've ever eaten – just not the best curry I've ever eaten! For 300 yen – that's less than two pounds – I can't really complain. But I think next time I'll spend a bit more and go to a proper restaurant!

▶ 2.33 PART 1

RACHEL Hi, am I late?

TOM No, you're right on time.

R So, are you ready to go shopping? I am so excited! I still can't believe you're going to ask Becky to marry you.

T Well, I've been thinking about that.

R Oh no! Don't tell me that you've changed your mind!

T Oh no, not at all. I just don't know how to do it.

R What do you mean?

T Well, do you think I should take her somewhere special?

R Um, yes!

T Maybe Paris? I was thinking I could propose at the top of the Eiffel Tower.

R Wow! Just like in the movies!

T Do you think that's too much?

R No, but is it what Becky would really like?

T Um, I just don't know. What do you suggest?

R Well, if I were you, I'd take her somewhere special.

T Exactly, like Paris.

R I mean special for the two of you! Like Mark took me to the place where we first met. It was really romantic, because he'd clearly thought about it. Where did you two first meet?

T At the office where we both worked.

R Oh OK, but there must be somewhere special.

T Hmm, maybe. How about the restaurant where we had our first date?

R Now that sounds like a possibility. Anyway, let's go and look for this ring.

▶ 2.34 PART 2

TOM So what about the ring? What would you buy? A big diamond, right? So she can show it to her friends?

RACHEL Seriously? Tom, do you know Becky at all? It's much better to buy something that's her style. Something that you think she'll like. She doesn't need to show off.

T I'm getting this all wrong!

R That's why I'm here. Come on.

R How about that ring?

T Oh, that's a nice one.

R It's £1500.

T I don't believe it! That's ridiculous.

R Tom! It's Becky! Over there.

T You're kidding! What should we do?

R Quick! Let's go in.

▶ 2.37

JEFF I like eating out, but I don't really like expensive restaurants. It's not the money so much as the atmosphere. The waiters are often quite unfriendly and you feel you have to talk quietly, or I do anyway. No one seems to be very relaxed. And the food can be good, but you don't often get much on your plate. I'd much rather go somewhere where the food's good and you don't have to pay so much.

FABIO I love going to cafés, either with friends or on my own. I sometimes take a book or a newspaper to read, or I just order a coffee and sit there. I sometimes start talking to someone, in fact I've got quite a good friend who I met in a café. We started talking and then found out we both liked the same kind of music. I like pavement cafés best. You don't have to think about anything, you can just sit and watch the world go by. It's a great way to pass time I think, very relaxing.

CARLA I really love dancing, so I often go out with a group of friends to a club in the evening. It's such a good way to spend the evening. We usually order some food, maybe just some starters and some grilled meat, and something to drink, and then we start dancing. There's a favourite place of mine where they have live music and we all dance Latin American dances like salsa or merengue. It's quite cheap. You have to pay something to get in, but it's not much and it's always full of people, maybe 200 people all dancing. It's got an amazing atmosphere.

Unit 7

1 Well, it's very small so it can't belong to a big family, maybe a small family or an older couple who live on their own. Where is it? It's somewhere dry and sunny, so it could be Mexico, maybe, or Spain.

2 There can't be much space in there, so I think it must belong to a single person or a couple. And where is it? It could be in any big city, but on the outskirts of the city, I think. It might be somewhere like Tokyo, where land's expensive so you can't build big houses. It might not be a house, it might be two separate flats. No, they can't be flats, the ground floor one is too small, so it must be a house.

3 You can see tall buildings outside the window, so this flat must be somewhere like Dubai or some modern city.

Whoever lives there can't have children, it's much too tidy. It might be someone who works a lot, or someone who doesn't spend much time there.

4 It's a huge house, so a very big family must live there, or maybe two or three different families. Or it might be a holiday home because it's in the mountains somewhere. It could be Switzerland or Austria, or perhaps Slovenia. Somewhere in Europe.

► 2.44

TIM What are you reading?

KATE Fran just sent me the link to this list of five reasons why small towns are better than cities.

T Ha-ha!

K What are you laughing at? Small towns are better than cities.

T Yes, if you want to have nothing to do and never meet anyone new!

K Well, I loved growing up in a small town. There's a real sense of community. People care about you. It's like you belong to one big family.

T Yes, I know you liked it. But I've always been a city boy. I love being in the centre of things – there's so much going on here. Cinemas, restaurants, museums. And there are lots more work opportunities in big cities than in a small town.

K But there's also more crime. Life's more dangerous here.

T Actually, research has shown that it's actually safer to live in the city.

K Really? I find that hard to believe.

T Yes, they did a study in the US that compared the number of accidents in country and city areas. And in the country there was a much higher number of accidents than in the city. Car crashes mainly, because people drive more in the countryside.

K That makes sense if you think about it. And hospitals are nearer, I suppose, so you get help quicker.

T Exactly. So it's actually safer to live in the city. And it's better for the environment.

K Really? How do you work that out?

T Well, you can't rely on public transport in the countryside like you can in the city, so you have to drive more. It's been proved that if you live in the city, you actually have a smaller carbon footprint, especially if you live somewhere with good public transport.

K I've definitely noticed that I walk more now I live in the city. Everything's closer, I guess. And it is nice not to have to get into the car just to go to a supermarket.

T You see! There are a lot of advantages to living in a city. You can't argue with that.

K No, I can't – there are definitely advantages. But I still miss my little home town.

► 2.50 PART 1

BECKY Do I look OK, Tom?

TOM You look great! You've got nothing to worry about.

B Oh, I really hope your parents like me.

T Of course they will. You'll be fine! After you, go on. ... Dad, this is Becky.

MICHAEL Hello, Becky. I'm Michael. It's very nice to meet you.

B Nice to meet you.

T And this is my mum, Charlotte.

CHARLOTTE Hello! It's lovely to meet you at last!

B Oh, you too!

C Thank you. They're lovely.

M Take a seat, Becky.

B Oh, thank you.

C Would you excuse me for a moment? I just need to check on the food.

B Of course. Is there anything we can do to help?

C Oh no, it's all under control!

B So, Martin ...

T Michael!

B Er, Michael. I expect you're excited about the match this afternoon.

M I'm not really a football fan, to be honest. I prefer golf.

B Oh, I see.

C Tom, do you think you could give me a hand in here?

T Sure.

M So, do you play golf?

B No.

B So Caroline, Tom tells me you're an architect. That must be very interesting.

C Oh, er, yes, I really enjoy it. In fact, at the moment, I'm working on –

M Here we go.

B Oh, this looks delicious.

M It's my own recipe.

B What's in it?

M It's chicken and mushroom.

B Oh. Um ...

M Is something wrong?

T She's a vegetarian!

B And I'm allergic to mushrooms.

C What? Tom, why didn't you tell us?

T I sent you an email yesterday. Didn't you see it?

M Oh no, we didn't!

C I'm really sorry, Becky. Let me get you something else.

B Oh no, Caroline, it's fine, really. Is it OK if I just have some bread and butter?

C No, we can do better than that. I'll get you a green salad.

B Oh OK, that would be lovely. Thanks.

T Becky, my mum's name is Charlotte, not Caroline!

B Oh no! How embarrassing!

► 2.51 PART 2

TOM Listen, I know today hasn't gone very well.

MICHAEL What do you mean?

T Well, Becky kept getting your names wrong. And she didn't eat the food you made.

M Oh, don't worry about that. It wasn't her fault. Becky seems really great.

T You really think so?

M Yes, of course.

T Well, I'm really happy to hear that, because, well, I'm thinking of asking her to marry me.

M Really? But that's great!

JON So you're going to Florida, Sue.

Lucky you! It must be nice and warm – not like here.

SUE Yes, it's about 30°, I think.

J I'm so jealous! Where are you staying? In a hotel?

S No, we've got an apartment near Miami Beach, with a swimming pool. It actually belongs to my cousin, but she's going to New York so she said we can use it while she's away. And her car.

J And her car? Wow, she must like you a lot!

S Well, yes, it's really generous of her. It means we're just paying for the flight. We couldn't afford it otherwise, not with the four of us.

J So, what are you going to do? Are you going to travel around?

S Well, it depends on the weather. It's hurricane season so it might be quite windy. But we'll probably go to the beach for a start – we all like swimming. Then Mia, my daughter, she's really into wildlife, so she wants to go to the Everglades and see the alligators, so we'll definitely do that. And of course we're going to have to go to Disney World for a day. I don't really want to, but Mark – that's my son – he wants to go there, and he wants to go on all the rides.

- J Oh, come on, it might be fun. You'll enjoy it.
- S Yes, I might.
- J Sounds like you're going to be busy, anyway.
- S Yeah. Oh, and my husband says we've got to go to Cape Canaveral – he wants to see the Apollo space rockets, so I guess we'll spend a couple of days doing that. I don't really want to go there. It's so far away, I'm not sure I can cope with so much driving. But there's no point in arguing with him about it. Once he gets an idea in his head ...
- J So, you're doing everything your family wants. What about you? What do you want to do?
- S Me? Oh, I'd just like to relax and do nothing – sit by the pool and read a few books.
- J Well, it sounds like you're going to be too busy. You won't have time for that.
- S No ...

Unit 8

ERICA How do you like the sound of this restaurant, Harry? Have a look at the reviews.

- HARRY Hmm. Oscar's restaurant, mostly five stars, 'One of the best places to eat in Britain', 'Magical place' ...
- E Sounds pretty good, doesn't it?
- H Yeah? Why?
- E There's only one problem. It doesn't exist! Lots of people read those reviews and wanted to go there. But when they tried to book a table, there was no response.

- H Uh?
- E People even went there to see if they could find it. But all they found was an empty street full of rubbish bins. Because the whole thing is a joke, a hoax, and there is actually no restaurant at all.
- H So someone made it up, made the whole restaurant up, and then wrote reviews about it?

- E Yeah, exactly.
- H But why would someone do that, go to all that trouble?
- E Well, apparently it was this businessman. He had a friend who owned a hotel. Another hotel owner wrote lots of bad reviews about the friend's hotel, and the hotel lost a lot of business and had financial problems because of the fake reviews. So this businessman wanted to make a point about online reviews.
- H About how they can damage people's businesses?

- E Exactly. He wanted to show that, really, anyone can write their opinion about anything online and a lot of people will believe it.
- H Wow! I never knew these review sites had so much power.
- E Yeah, they do. And I think this guy made a really good point. There should be much more control over which reviews are posted. People shouldn't just be able to write anything they like.
- H Actually now I read these reviews again, they're not very realistic, are they? And all these fake reviewers have only written one review on the website. So yes, of course, they're all fake reviewers. Yes, it's obvious. I would have spotted that if I'd had more time to look at them.
- E Ahem. Yes, of course.

- 1 HAIRDRESSER So I was thinking, maybe we could go for a much shorter style this time? What do you think? Something very different, really short.
- WOMAN Yes, yes, really short! Do it!
- H If you like, I can use this new product on your hair this time. It's very good. It'll make the cut a bit more expensive, though.

- W Oh, no. No thanks.
- 2 WOMAN Here are the keys. It's been fantastic. Thank you.
- RECEPTIONIST That's good to hear. Don't forget to write a review on our website when you get home!

- W Yes, we will. We'll give you excellent feedback, don't worry!
- 3 WAITER Here's your bill.

- WOMAN I'm sorry, but I'm not going to pay for the dessert. It was terrible.

- WA But you ate it, madam.
- WO Well yes, but ...
- WA Then you have to pay for it, madam.
- WO But it wasn't ...
- WA Would you like me to get the manager?

PART 1

- MARK Hi!
- RACHEL Hi! What are you doing here?
- M I left work a bit early, so I brought you some cakes.
- R Really? Thank you! I was just getting hungry, actually. I haven't even had lunch yet. We've been really busy today.
- M Well, that's good.
- R Yes, yes it is.
- M Are you still worried about that new florist's opening up down the road?
- R Yes, kind of. I just don't know whether there's enough business around here for two places.

- M Hmm. And have you heard anything from Becky? She's got her interview today, right?

- R Yes, she should be there right now. I hope it goes well – she really wants a place on that course.

- BEN And finally, what kind of photos do you enjoy taking the most? You have a couple of portraits in your portfolio.

- BECKY Well, taking portraits can be really rewarding, especially if the person likes the final photo. But I think, on the whole, I prefer taking action shots – sport and that sort of thing. It's so satisfying when you manage to take the photo at just the right moment.

- BEN OK, well that's all the questions I have. Do you have any questions for me?

- B Actually, yes, I do. The course description mentions a work placement. Could you tell me a little more about that?

- BEN Of course. It tends to either be working at a local gallery on a photography exhibition or working with a professional photographer as an assistant. The placement generally lasts two weeks and normally happens during the holidays.

- B OK, and there are trips abroad too, aren't there?

- BEN Yes, typically each class has two opportunities to go on study visits per year. Last year they went to Paris and Berlin to see exhibitions. In Berlin, they even had a private question and answer session with the photographer.

- B That sounds fantastic.

- TOM So, how did it go?

- B Yeah. Pretty well I think, on the whole. But it was much more difficult than I thought it was going to be. I was there around two hours.

- T Wow.

- B Yeah. There was one question I didn't know how to answer, but otherwise, yeah, pretty well.

- T What was the question?

- B Oh, it was something about my opinion of a famous photographer. I'm not very good with that sort of thing.

- T Don't worry. Surely that's what the course is for. Did you find out much about the course?

- B Yeah, he told me quite a lot about it. It looks great. There's a job placement where we get to work with professional photographers. And the university itself seems really nice.

- T When will you find out if you have a place?

- B Well, normally they don't tell you during the interview, but the tutor said they'd be in touch this week.

MARK Hi Tina, how are you?

TINA Hi Mark, I'm good, thanks. Listen, I just saw Sam from the newsagent's. Apparently that new shop's not going to be a florist's. It's going to be a clothes shop.

RACHEL Really?

T Really!

M That's brilliant.

R Yes, that's fantastic news. Though of course we'd have had no problem with a bit of competition!

BECKY Thank you. I've got an email from the university. Tom, I've got a place. They've accepted me on the course.

T Wow, that's fantastic. I knew they would!

B Oh, I'm so excited, I can't wait to start.

T We should celebrate!

B We should, but first I have to phone Rachel. After all, it was all her idea in the first place.

B Hi, Rachel. I've got some fantastic news!

R So have it! You first!

People were commenting online recently about an 11-year-old boy from Manchester in England, who flew to Rome on his own. He was out shopping with his mother at a shopping centre near Manchester Airport, and while she was busy looking at something, he slipped away and walked into the airport. Of course he had no money or anything, he was only 11 years old, but he followed a family who were going on holiday and no one noticed him – everyone thought he was part of that family.

Incredibly, he managed to get through security. It seems that no one noticed he didn't have a boarding pass, and they even let him get on the plane. Normally, of course, they check your boarding pass when you get on, but I guess they just thought he was with the family. Anyway, they let him on and he found an empty seat somewhere. They normally count the passengers to make sure they've got the right number, but it seems either they didn't do it this time or they didn't do it properly, so the plane took off and he flew to Rome. Then luckily, when he got to Rome they found out he was on his own without a passport and they put him on the next flight back to Manchester.

Naturally, his mother was extremely worried about him and she complained about it. Both the airline and the airport admitted it was their fault straight away and they promised to look at their security. And they even offered her a free flight.

It's incredible that he managed to get through all the airport security controls without them noticing. But apparently, it happens quite often, and it's nearly always boys of about that age, between 11 and 14, who want to go on a plane.

ELLIE Nick, it's time to talk about cinema.

NICK OK.

E Yeah, the thing is I have a bit of a problem with films these days.

N What's that?

E Well, I'm getting a bit sick and tired of all the CGI. You know, I go to watch a drama, or an action film – and it just doesn't look real. It's the directors!

They just seem to focus so much on cool special effects – they forget about the story. Think about classic films like Casablanca. They had absolutely no special effects. Just good story-telling, good characters, good acting.

N But Ellie, even Casablanca has special effects. You know those scenes where they're driving through the streets of Paris – well, that wasn't Paris – it was all filmed in a studio in California! I think CGI is a fantastic tool for directors. Nowadays we can tell stories that wouldn't have been possible 50 years ago. The Hobbit, The Life of Pi, even Star Wars. You couldn't make any of them without special effects.

E But still ... I really think special effects are used so much more than necessary. Take Christopher Nolan ...

N Christopher Nolan who made the Batman films? And Inception? He uses loads of special effects!

E Yes, but he only uses them when he really has to. When he was making Inception, he filmed in six different countries to get the different scenes he needed. And remember that fight scene in the room that was moving and turning?

N Oh yes, I do.

E Well, that wasn't done with special effects. They made a room that actually moved around. Leonardo DiCaprio and Joseph Gordon-Levitt had to fight in it.

N Wow, I didn't know that.

E Impressive, right?

N OK, yes, that's clever. But I think that just shows that good directors can have good actors and a good story and they can also use modern technology.

And when the technology is used with imagination and creativity, the results can be amazing. Really spectacular.

ANNIE Well, my music experience sort of started when I was seven. It was my grandmother who started it. She gave me a CD of samba music. I loved the rhythms. I played it constantly. My mum says I was always dancing to it. Samba music is Brazilian music with African rhythms and it's very loud, very energetic. Eventually, I decided I wanted to play the music, not just listen to it, so I saved up and bought a drum. It was an atabaque ... it's a drum you play with your hands. I taught myself to play it. And this year, I played in my first street carnival. We were playing in the street, and people around us were dancing, and it was like my whole body was part of the rhythm. It was incredible, the best thing I've ever done! So now I've decided that I want to be a music teacher.

JEFF Yeah, well, my music experience was going to the opera. I was travelling through Italy with a group from university. We got to Verona and there was this opera festival on. I wasn't really interested in opera, but my friends persuaded me to go. To be honest, it was a bit boring at first. But then it started to get dark. It was a clear night and you could see the stars. I was sitting next to one of the people who was in my group, Laura, and it was, you know, romantic, sitting under the stars, listening to this amazing music. And, well, we've been together ever since! We even went back to Verona for our honeymoon. Although we didn't go to the opera!

ERICA My friend Mark was living in Budapest, in Hungary, and I went to visit him. Mark knew a lot of places in the city and he took me to an old boat on the river, where you can hear bands practising. The atmosphere was great. It's the kind of place where you could sit and chat all night. Anyway, this band was amazing. They were playing folk music from Transylvania. I particularly remember the violinist. I'll never forget the way he played – so fast, but so relaxed. So there I was, in the middle of a freezing, icy river, listening to this amazing music. And I realised this is where I want to be. So a few months later, I quit my job, and Mark helped me find a job in Budapest. And I stayed there for nearly 10 years.

RACHEL Hi, Becky.

BECKY Hi, Rachel!

R How are you?

B I'm good, thanks. Listen, Tom and I were thinking about going to see a band tomorrow night. Would you guys like to come?

R Oh, that's a great idea. Who were you planning to see?

B Well, we thought about going to that jazz club in town. They have live music every Friday and it's meant to be excellent.

R Wait a sec, I'll just ask Mark. ...

Mark, it's Becky. She wants to know if we'd like to go to a jazz club tomorrow evening. ... Ah, sorry, Becky. Mark says he's not that keen on jazz. How about going to the classical music festival at the university? It's supposed to be really good.

B Hmm, I'm not a big fan of classical music. I'm sure Tom would like it, but not me. Hang on. Tom wants to say something.

TOM Why don't we go and see that local band, The Snowmen? They're playing at the Empire tomorrow and they've had great reviews.

B Did you hear what Tom said?

R Yes, but I'm not sure Mark would be interested. What kind of music do they play?

B What kind of music is it, Tom?

T It's rock, but it's a bit retro. They sound quite 1980s, so Mark should like it!

B Tom says it's rock, but a bit retro. 80s' music.

R I doubt Mark would be interested. He hasn't seen a rock band for about 10 years. Wait a moment, I'll ask him. Tom's suggesting an 80s' rock band.

MARK Um, yeah! Sounds good. Let's do it!

R Really?

M Yeah, why not? Something a bit different.

R Um, Becky, are you still there?

B Yeah.

R Mark says yes! So what time does it start?

B Hang on a moment. I'll pass you over to Tom. What time does it start?

T Hi, Rach. It starts at 8, so shall we meet outside at half past seven?

R Great. See you there.

T Oh, and tell Mark to wear something cool.

▶ 3.33 PART 2

BECKY Oh, there they are.

TOM What's he wearing?

B I don't know.

RACHEL Hi, guys.

B Hi.

T Mark, what are you wearing?

MARK It's my 'going out' jacket! Don't you like it?

T Er, not really!

ANNA I got two free tickets to the Kanye West concert. I mean, I couldn't believe it! Kanye West, one of the biggest hip-hop stars, for free! So I invited my friend Camila and she said 'no thanks'. And I said 'What? Are you crazy? The ticket costs nothing'. But then she tells me she doesn't like live music. She'd prefer to stay at home and listen to music on her computer. I find that very strange because, for me, music is something full of ... full of the singer's feelings, and if you can watch a singer perform, you can see what they're feeling and experience the music much more. But Camila thinks recorded music is better because you can hear everything more clearly. The quality's better, and you don't have crowds around you, and it's just easier to enjoy it. For me, it's more important to see the song come to life when the singer or band connects with the audience. And the other thing I love at the concert is the music is really loud. Anyway, Camila won't be coming with me, but lots of other people will want to.

CAMILA My friend Anna invited me to go to the Kanye West concert next month. She managed to get hold of two free tickets – she's very lucky. She asked me to go with her, but I said no. She thinks I must be mad, saying no to free tickets! I mean, I really like Kanye West and I've got all his albums, but I just don't like going to live concerts. I really prefer listening to music at home or through headphones. In a concert, singers and musicians always make mistakes. They get the rhythm a bit wrong or play notes that are wrong or something. And you see, mistakes can be fixed in recording. Well, that's part of it. The other thing is, but I didn't tell Anna this, I hate the crowds and there are usually so many people that you can only see the singer on the big screen. So what's the point? I know lots of friends who will want the ticket. It was very kind of Anna, but no.

LIBBY So, how are you, Gina? How was your holiday?

GINA Oh, it was great. Really good. Thailand was beautiful. And the food was amazing. But the best bit was when we went scuba diving.

L Scuba diving? I didn't realise you were going to do that!

G Neither did we! But we went to this gorgeous island called Koh Tao, and it turned out it's famous for its diving. Everyone there told us how amazing it is to dive there, so we decided to have a go.

L Wow. So did you have some training before you went in the sea?

G Yes, we did a three-day course – PADI, it's called. We had to do a few sessions in a classroom and in a pool, but by the second day we were already diving in the open water.

L Was it scary? I think if I went, I'd be terrified!

G I was a bit worried about it before we went into the water for the first time. You start imagining sharks, and running out of oxygen, and all kinds of things! But once we got in, I relaxed really quickly. There were so many amazing fish to see – the colours were fantastic. In fact, I got so excited that I was moving around too much and using up all my oxygen. The instructor told me off. Apparently, diving is a sport for lazy people. You're not supposed to move around too much!

L Oh really? It sounds perfect for me!

G And on the third day we went to Shark Island. Luckily, it turns out that the name comes from the shape of the island – it looks like a fin – not the local wildlife! The coral there was just so beautiful – all these gorgeous colours.

L It all sounds so amazing.

G It really was. If you get the chance, you should definitely go scuba diving. If you went, you would absolutely love it.

L OK, well, if I ever go to somewhere like Thailand, I might try it.

G So, how are you? What's been happening here?

L Not much, really. Oh, I've just signed up for my first ever public run!

G Oh, great! I was wondering if you were still going running. A marathon?!

L No, not quite! I wouldn't do a full marathon – I'm not fit enough! It's only five kilometres, and it's not a timed race, or anything. It's just for fun, really. It's called the Colour Run, because every kilometre they cover you in coloured powder paint. So, by the end, you're all covered in different colours.

G Ha-ha, that sounds like fun.

L Yes, I think it'll be a bit more relaxed than a proper race – not quite so competitive. And at the end of the race, there's a big party, with music – and loads more powder paint. And it's popular with all kinds of people.

G Excellent!

L You should do it too! It would be great if there was a big group of us going. Would you like to try?

G Hmm, yes, I would, but I don't know. If I was a bit fitter, I would definitely do it. When is it?

L It's not for a couple of months. You've got time to prepare. And five kilometres is not very far.

G Hmm, OK then. I'll give it a try!

1A How did the match go?

B Oh, I lost 5–1.

A Oh dear.

B Well, I wasn't playing my best. Of course I would have won easily if I hadn't hurt my arm.

A Oh, of course.

2C It's no good. I can't start the engine.

D Oh great. This car's nothing but trouble.

C I know. I wouldn't have bought it if I'd known it was in such bad condition.

D Well, what did you expect for such a cheap price?

3E Careful! Are you OK?

F Yes, thank you, I'm fine. Thank you. If you hadn't pushed me, that car would have hit me!

E Yes, I know. Some people just don't look.

F Yes. Thank you so much anyway.

E That's all right. You be careful, though.

4G We found out that he was lying all the time. He had a daughter living in Hong Kong and he was sending her all the money.

H Ah, that explains why his bank account was empty.

G Yes, exactly. I wouldn't have discovered the truth if I hadn't read her letters. I found them in a box in his attic.

H Well done. Good work.

MARK Thanks Tom. So have you ...?

TOM Not yet.

M Right.

T I'm going to ask her tonight.

M Oh! How do you feel?

T A bit nervous! How did you feel when you did it?

3.44 PART 2

TOM How did you feel when you did it?

MARK When I asked Rachel to marry me? Um, fine, I think. You've got nothing to worry about. I'm sure it'll be ok.

T I wish I had your confidence.

M So, where are you taking her?

T I've booked a table at Bella Vita. It's the place where we went on our first date.

M That's a good idea.

T Do you think so? You don't think it's a bit boring?

M No, not at all.

T Hmm. I'm still worried that something will go wrong. What if she says no?

M She's definitely not going to say no. You two are perfect for each other.

T Hmm, but what if?

M All right, enough!

3.47 PART 3

BECKY Thank you!

TOM Thanks!

B So what are you going to get? I'm starving!

T I don't know. Maybe a pizza.

B Yeah, the pizzas do look really good.

T So, um, Becky, ever since I've known you ...

B It's been a long time since we were here last.

T Yeah, we came here on our first date, didn't we?

B Really? I thought we went somewhere else. That reminds me, I need to book the restaurant for the office party. Let me just make a note of that before I forget. Were you trying to give me a ring earlier?

T A ring? What?! No!

B I've got a missed call from you on my phone.

T Oh! Oh, yeah, I just wanted to check that you knew which restaurant it was.

B Oh, OK.

T So, anyway, as I was saying, you've really changed my life.

WAITER Are you ready to order?

B Oh, we haven't even looked at the menus yet! Could you give us a couple more minutes?

W Of course.

T Becky, there's something I want to ask you.

B Oh yes, me too. Are you free this weekend? My parents are coming to stay and –

T Listen, I'm trying to ask you to marry me!

B What? Tom! Oh I had no idea. How long have you been planning this? ... This ring is gorgeous. When did you buy that? Oh, I know! That's what you were doing with Rachel in the shopping centre. I was sure something was going on!

T Becky, will you marry me?

B Of course I will!

GREG I finished training as a nurse in Auckland and I was expecting to get a job in a small hospital somewhere. But then a friend told me about NowVolunteer and I decided to apply. I'd always wanted to go to an African country and use my nursing skills to help people and here was a chance to do that, so I decided to take the opportunity while I could. I had to raise $500 before I went, but that was quite easy – I got two hospitals to sponsor me and then I borrowed some money from the bank.

So I went to Madagascar and joined a team of people working with a local supervisor. We set up a program where we went round villages and taught basic ways to improve hygiene and to avoid catching diseases. For example, we gave instruction about how to avoid catching malaria and distributed mosquito nets to some of the homes. I think we did some good, I hope so anyway, but I also learned a huge amount from it. I was suddenly in a completely different culture, teaching people who had such a different lifestyle from my own, so I think it made a big difference to the way I see the world. And I also made some very good friends out there, both local people and the other volunteers. We had such good times together and we've kept in touch since then.

After I came back, I got accepted straight away for a job at the university hospital, which is one of the best hospitals in Auckland. I'm sure I wouldn't have managed to do that if I hadn't worked in Madagascar and got this practical experience.

So I'd recommend NowVolunteer to anyone. I think their programs are great.

CAMBRIDGE ENGLISH CORPUS

The Cambridge English Corpus is a multi-billion word collection of written and spoken English. It includes the Cambridge Learner Corpus, a unique bank of exam candidate papers.

Our authors study the Corpus to see how English is really used, and to identify typical learner mistakes. This means that Cambridge materials help students to avoid mistakes, and you can be confident the language taught is useful, natural and fully up to date.
